HO, HO HO! SANTA'S HERE

DOES THIS MAN LOOK FAMILIAR? Santa Claus flew into Minden on Saturday to take part in the Lions Club second annual Christmas parade, which attracted hundreds of people to the village's downtown core. After riding up to the community centre, Santa returned to the firehall where he heard dozens of wish lists and gave each of the children some candy to tide them over until the big day.

BOE says no to Sir Sandford's expansion plan

by BRIAN RODNICK
Staff Reporter

After weeks of deliberating, the board of education has refused to grant Sir Sandford Fleming College use of the Haliburton Highland Secondary School (HHSS) for one extra week of summer classes.

"We have tried hard to accommodate Sir Sandford," said Business Administrator Jim Bradley at Tuesday's meeting, adding that the needs of the board's staff have to be weighed against the needs of the community.

Before the board made a decision, members of Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce asked the board to allow Sir Sandford to extend its program one week, up from five.

"It would be a serious injustice if the board turns down Sir Sandford's application," said Curtis Eastmure, adding that Sir Sandford's summer program is vital to the county's tourism trade, contributing at least $120,000 to the area each week it runs.

"This past tourist season in Haliburton has not been a good one and tourism is our major economic lifeline. I hope you consider the business community when you review your decision."

Haliburton businessman Dennis Casey added "If the board turns down the application, what kind of a signal is this sending to Sir Sandford?"

The key issue is time the custodial staff feels they must have to get HHSS ready for registration in late August. With an extra week for SSFC classes, the custodians say this will not give them enough time to

HHSS students can smoke on campus

by BRIAN RODNICK
Staff Reporter

Concerns over students' safety have prompted the board of education to adjust part of its smoking policy and allow students to smoke on the grounds of the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School (HHSS).

The vote among trustees was not unanimous but the majority felt it was the best solution.

"I don't want us backtracking. I don't want that old smoking shack back up," said trustee Cheryl Murdoch, "but I'm concerned about the safety aspect."

When the board banned smoking on its property in September, students set up an unofficial smoking area on municipal property near the old train.

As winter approaches and roads become slick, trustees and school bus drivers worry that students are standing too close to the highway.

In a letter presented to the board from NorthernWays Transit Limited, Jack Brohm asked for a change in the smoking policy to prevent an accident from occurring.

"It is just a matter of time until someone is badly injured. I will not be held responsible for a situation that can be corrected by designating a safe area for student smokers either on or off board property."

Besides safety, concerns were raised over possible damage to the train and of students skipping class to go down for a smoke. Trustee Linda Mumford said she visited the area to talk to students and found this

Judge stalls verdict in MPP's trial

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

Because he will set a precedent for the 229 other people who protested the extension of the Red Squirrel Road, a Temagami judge is giving himself until December 17 to decide whether MPP Dennis Drainville is guilty of mischief.

For three hours on Thursday morning, the New Democrat MPP was questioned by lawyers about his role in the protest against the provincial government's plans to log an area of forest the Teme Augama Anishnabai claim as their own. Drainville did not deny that last December he took part in the protest, but argued the charge on points of law and morality.

Earlier that week, Drainville was acquitted when the same judge acquitted Chief Gary Potts, and 29 other natives of mischief. The judge agreed with Chief Potts' defense of "colour of right," Drainville said in a telephone interview Wednesday night. That is, the natives firmly believe the land is theirs and therefore felt they had a right to protect it.

"Today a miracle occurred," Drainville said in describing the judge's decision, which he believes was a first for issues dealing with native rights. "It's probably one of the most significant judgements in Canada."

The colour of right argument was also used by the natives' and Drainville's lawyer, John Olthius, in dealing with Innu protests at Goose Bay, Labrador. The argument was accepted in Labrador, but the case was thrown out on technical grounds not stemming from the defense.

Drainville did not use colour of right in his defense. Instead, he argued that he and Sister Faith Sherlock and Father George Leach, whose cases were to follow Drainville's, were there "because of our Christian moral views and we were invited by the Teme Augama Anishnabai to defend their land with them."

That doesn't mean he believes the three of them — he's also an Anglican priest — have special immunity or moral authority because of their religious robes, he says.

WEATHER WATCH

Wild weather wreaks havoc for many drivers

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

With the arrival of winter's first snowstorm, it seemed like a good time to resume Weather Watch with Jim Elstone.

It won't be any surprise to Monday drivers that 10 cm of snow blanketed the bare ground in a matter of hours.

But much to those drivers' chagrin, that night the snow was followed by freezing rain.

"It's never too cold to rain," Mr. Elstone says of how it can rain when it's minus five degrees. (All temperatures will be recorded in Celsius.) It means that there's a warm air mass thousands of feet above ground. But below it is a cold air mass. So the precipitation begins as rain, cools in the cold air mass, and falls as freezing rain, or ice pellets, as were also evident.

"They should have quit plowing the road two hours ago," Mr. Elstone says at 7:30 Monday night. "That would have given us snow cover before the freezing rain began."

But more snow should have fallen on Tuesday to cover up any ice, and watching the ice pellets fall against the windows of his Haliburton home, Mr. Elstone

Principles motivate MPP to act

"The reason I was there was because of Christian principles," he says, the strain of the day evident in his voice. In the past several years, "I've worked across this country on issues of justice. I've spent hours, weeks, months trying to change legislation. What did I work those 70-hour weeks for? I did it because I believe in Jesus Christ."

"What has motivated me is my deep belief in Christianity."

Thinking of his trial the next day, Drainville said "I've got to tell you, it's not easy to go into a situation where crown lawyers would try to trip him up. The judicial system 'is oppressive to the poor, marginal and minorities and to face that head on..."

"I'm very nervous now and not quite sure what I'm going to say. When your heart and mind are so full of feeling, and you want to ensure justice" is carried out, a courtroom is not the best place to achieve that.

Drainville was getting support from the Temagami native community. When Chief Potts was acquitted, "there wasn't so much cheers as weeping. Everyone felt a sense of vindication of 114 years of struggling with the legal system."

"(Afterwards) we had a sacred fire and we prayed at a sweet grass ceremony," he says. "It was moving and very beautiful."

Drainville's wife, Donna Quance (who was arrested at a later protest), and one of his staff members arrived at Temagami on Wednesday night.

Council ponders marine definition

Lack of public understanding has prompted Dysart Council to consider changing the definition of "Marine Facility" in its zoning by-law.

"We want to clarify it more for the public," says Jody Ainsworth, planning administrator.

Council held a public meeting Monday night to discuss the issue and decided to defer a decision until they received a second legal opinion of the change.

The proposed change alters only the first section of the original definition, which reads: "means an accessory building or structure which is used to take a boat into or out of a waterbody, to moor, to berth or to store a boat."

The proposed wording is: "means an unenclosed accessory structure which is used to moor or berth a boat."

DYMO bus is now paid for

by MARTHA PERKINS

Wednesday became a red letter day when the new DYMO bus rolled into the black, thanks to a donation from the Orange Lodge.

The $68,000 wheelchair-accessible bus is entirely paid for. After a two-year fundraising campaign, a $2,912-cheque from John Consack, master of the Haliburton Orange Lodge, evened up the balance sheet. (Half the costs were paid by the Ministry of Transportation and the rest by the public.)

"This is like Santa Claus," said

an exuberant Barbara Fryer when she accepted the cheque. The activities supervisor at Haliburton Extensicare, she helped spearhead the purchase of the bus and the fundraising campaign. "It's so exciting to have this paid for."

This is the second donation the Orange Lodge has made to the campaign. Altogether, members raised $7,000 so local seniors and people in wheelchairs could have a suitable means of transportation. The lodge is also paying for the first six month's rent for storage. Since 1982, notes Mr. Consack, who's also one of the volunteer drivers, the Orange Lodge has donated more than $63,000 to local organizations.

Other recent donations include a stereo donated by volunteer driver Jim Tice, which was installed by Peter Grolman, assisted by Maple Lake Electronics. The stereo complements other features such as large, tinted windows and air conditioning. The bus is being stored at Haliburton Truck Centre "at a very reasonable rate."

However, more donations will be welcomed for the upkeep and maintenance of the bus, which is now owned and operated by the

New party offers another political option to locals

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

The Reform Party of Canada tapped into some of the local discontent with the Mulroney government when 15 people joined its ranks on Friday night.

"Nation building didn't only happen 100 years ago," Victoria-Haliburton riding association president Barry Devolin said to the 35 people gathered at the Haliburton Curling Club. (There seemed to be a strong contingent of real estate representatives, including Devolin and vice-president Linda Beachli.)

Six months ago, the former Conservative party worker didn't think he'd be saying the Reform Party was a viable alternative. Six months ago, he wouldn't have thought the riding would have sent a New Democrat representative to Queens Park either.

Others apparently share his wish for a new political order. After guest speaker Bill Gearing, president of the Simcoe North riding, outlined the RP's platform, there was brisk business at the registration table.

"Most of us are plain, ordinary Canadians who are alarmed by what is happening to our country," Gearing said of the new members. "Canada is one of the best countries to live in, but it is nevertheless threatened as a great many things are going wrong."

The federal government's overspending, which has created a deficit and debt of "crisis proportions"; the government's tendency to ignore the wishes of the people; and political leaders "who have been playing politics and abusing their power for the sake of more power" were all cited as Mulroney's transgressions.

As a result, many people are turning to the RP because it is addressing these issues, Gearing says.

The fiscal crisis "happened because since 1972, every federal government has violated a basic Keynesian economic principle. Instead of building surpluses in good times, every Minister of Finance, including Jean Chretien, has engaged in deficit financing by spending more money than they take in and borrowing the difference."

This has led to high interest rates, a high Canadian dollar, and high inflation. "It means that our governments have been mortgaging our future. . . Why do they do it? Because by giving handouts to special interest groups they win votes. And so they have been spending money as if there is a never-ending supply."

A major RP policy is to reduce spending by reducing waste. "We must set and obey priorities." Number one is the principle that "government must balance its

Roof receives repair

A leaky roof may be a thing of the past for one of the Victoria Street School's older portables.

The school board's business administrator, Jim Bradley, said he was negotiating with contractors to replace the portable's asphalt roof with a steel one.

Principal Michael Burke reported the roof situation to the board after a contractor who came to repair the leaky roof found it was all buckled.

Bradley estimates it will cost the board around $2000 to replace the roof.

The portable is at least 15 years old and Burke said to his knowledge this is the first time it needed a major repair.

RP has a plan to cure Canada's woes

and other benefits. . . We will end the practice whereby some of the compensation to politicians and public servants is tax free. And we will revise their pension plans so they will not be superior to those enjoyed by other Canadians."

"Thick layers" of middle management in the civil service would also be cut away by the RP.

"Some departments should be reduced drastically or even eliminated."

"Pet projects" such as official bilingualism, multiculturalism and government "propaganda" through advertising would also be on the way out.

"French in Quebec and English in the rest of Canada," is the RP's linguistic motto. "We oppose the imposition of language policies on the people by governments, and we believe language policies should be fair to unilingual Canadians."

"If there is dissension about language, we support 'asking the people', through a referendum, to create a language policy that reflects both the aspirations of Canadians and the demographic reality of the country."

"If these principles are not accepted by Quebec, if the house cannot be united on such a basis, then Quebec and the rest of Canada will have to examine the feasibility of establishing a better but more separate relationship, on equitable and mutually acceptable terms."

As to multiculturalism, "we will put an end to rule by a small elite who think they know what is best for us and who have been eroding Canadian customs and traditions without our consent."

"Multiculturalism has become a political tool, a drain on the treasury, and an impediment to the development of a national identity. It threatens to balkanize the country."

"With respect to immigration, we believe the Canadian people should decide how many and who will be admitted to this country. We will welcome genuine refugees, but we believe bogus refugees and illegal immigrants should be deported immediately. Let the people decide."

In another way to cut spending, the RP will not allow federal financial support "to special interest groups for the purpose of political lobbying. . . If they think their cause is just, let them raise the money themselves."

As well, "we will make major cuts in government subsidies and tax concessions to large corporations which were valued at more than $11-billion by the Neilsen Task Force."

"And we believe that across-the-board cuts of 10 to 15 per cent can be made in the administration of government."

"An appropriate analogy is to think of a government program being like a delivery truck. It would be foolish to use an 18-wheel transport to deliver a few parcels. It's the size of the truck that must be reduced, not the size of the goods being delivered."

But the RP's platform is open to suggestions. "We will introduce a process, with safeguards, that will let the people decide by binding referenda on major moral and social issues such as capital punishment, immigration and bilingualism."

Friday's informational meeting attracted 35 people

If three per cent of the population sign a petition, a referendum can be held, Gearing added.

MPs will also be allowed free vote on more issues. "We will reduce party discipline and enable a Member of Parliament to vote according to the wishes of his constituents rather than to please the party leader."

Of course, the party that has had one of its members elected to the senate is in favour of the "Triple E Senate: effective, elected and equal."

"The equality concept bothers some people. They must realize that we are more than a one-man, one-vote, majority-rule democracy. Because of our vastness and other factors, we are a democratic federation. I stress we are a federation."

In the question and answer period, Gearing said the RP would cut foreign aid while supporting dollar-for-dollar programs which are more roots driven.

If we have an elected senate, someone asked, what guarantees are there it still won't be divided along party lines? That would happen at first, Gearing said, but "what you would see happening is less and less voting by party line."

On language rights, Gearing said some of the money spent on French services outside of Quebec is out of proportion to the need.

Could people recall an MP who they were not satisfied with? If there's a flagrant abuse of office, yes. But "you'll have to have safeguards and the mechanics have to be worked out."

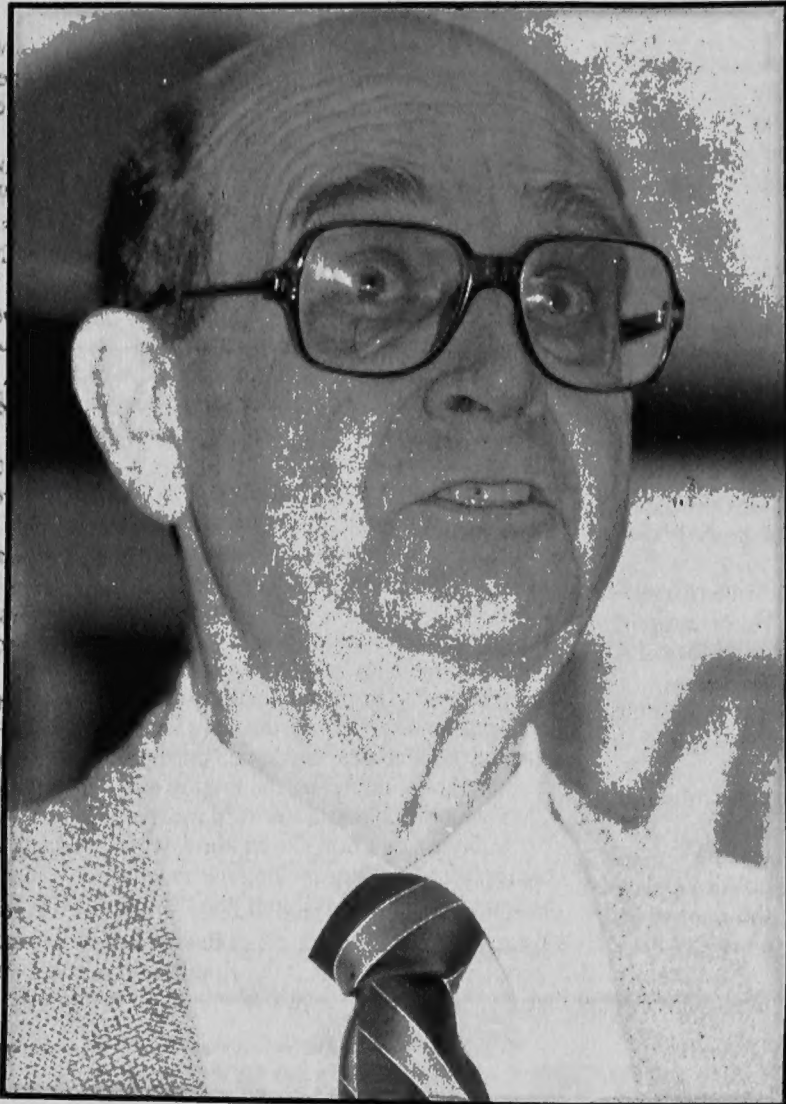

One of the few dissenting voices came from Godfrey Tyler, who questioned the RP's use of plebiscites to make decisions. To make an informed decision, Tyler said, you need information. That sets you up for media manipulation. As well, the costs would be "out of line."

On the emotional issues such as abortion, Tyler said, attitudes become based on hysteria and hype. As well, many Reformers seem to want to be in charge, not realizing that sometimes honest mistakes are made.

"If we believe in democracy, we believe in the right to make a mistake," Gearing said. Some issues, such as whether to build a P.E.I. link will never go to a national referendum because "it's not something for the people in Canada to decide." In national emergencies, there's no time to "go to the people."

But, Gearing concluded, "I do not believe my MP has any more knowledge on capital punishment than I do. . . Democracy is a very messy way of doing things. However, messy democracy is still the best way."

ADDING MORE NAMES TO THE FOOD LIST: The 4Cs' ready for the Christmas drive. People are asked to drop Hadden Gillespie is hard at work getting food boxes off food and toys at several locations in the county.

Smoking policy gets adjusted

wasn't the case. "I heard a rumor the students were being defiant," she said, "but they were just doing what we asked them to."

But some trustees were not convinced changing the policy was the right thing to do. "If you change it for the high school then you will have to do it for all the schools," said trustee Wally Bunn.

He was concerned that by changing the policy, staff at the elementary schools would want the same right.

Chairman Leonard Salvatori said this was not an immediate concern. "Let us solve this problem first and then we will worry about the others."

The board's smoking policy is split into four phases and has taken four years to institute. The first step in 1986 was to eliminate after hours smoking in school buildings by outside groups who use the school.

The second step in 1988 prohibited smoking in the schools by everyone between the hours of 9 am to 4 pm. In 1989 smoking was prohibited in all school buildings.

The last phase was put in place in September when the board banned smoking on board property.

The board will disband only the fourth phase of the policy, leaving the remaining three in place.

"I don't think it is a good policy the way it stands," said trustee Craig Pettit, and added even with the change, students would still be in jeopardy as they cross in front of buses to reach the old smoking area behind the school.

But Principal Peter Forgrave said he and Vice-principal Gary Brohman have not chosen an area for the smokers and will allow students to use the old area temporarily.

He was pleased with the board's decision and doesn't feel they made a mistake. "You try something and sometimes it doesn't work. You just have to refine it. It was nice that both sides could come up with a mutual solution."

At last month's board meeting, Superintendent of Education Dale Robinson suggested going to the students to ask them to come up with a solution.

On November 13, student representatives met with Director of Education Stuart Baker and Forgrave.

The students' report listed 10 reasons why the policy should be adjusted. These included the safety factor and the unattractive impression a large group of smoking teens standing by the side of the road presented to passers by.

They suggested the clean-up of the new smoking area could be handled by the students.

But trustee Wendy Ladurantaye did not agree with the students' reasoning. "As soon as you let students back on the property then we are right back where we were four years ago."

She felt the whole smoking policy needed to be rethought in order to find an agreeable solution. "I don't think we can deal one little part of the policy after another."

Following the vote, Bunn handed Salvatori one of the "no smoking" signs the board was going to set up outside HHSS. He asked what should they do with the $250 signs now?

Salvatori stood by the board's decision and said if he didn't put students' safety first, he did not want to be sitting at the head of the table.

"Phase four was given a good shot," said trustee Tim Casey, "and we won't lose the respect of the community for changing it."

Everyone can enjoy holidays thanks to 4Cs

by BRIAN RODNICK
Staff Reporter

WHO IS GOING TO CARVE the turkey in your house this Christmas? Could you imagine not having the money to afford one — let alone enough food to see your family through the holidays?

For many families in the county this scenario materializes every year at this time.

But unlike many unfortunate people who are faced with having to go hungry, help is available in Haliburton and it is spelt with four Cs — Community Christian Concern Centre.

"It is not easy to phone in and ask for things," says Hadden Gillespie, who runs the 4Cs.

Last year the 4Cs annual Christmas Food Drive sent out 84 boxes of food to needy families throughout the county; this year's figure could top 100.

"It's the recession," says Louise Leonard of Minden. For the last three years she and husband Ken have been running a Christmas food drive for families along the Hwy. 35 corridor.

"Last year we delivered 45 boxes. I'm anticipating this year it will be 50 or 60."

Leonard says she won't know for sure since their food drive began on Monday, and people will begin to come "out of the woodwork" to ask for help.

"We always work together so we don't overlap," says Gillespie, referring to the 4Cs relationship with the Leonards.

At that moment, the phone rings in his tiny office next to the Haliburton County Home Support Services office. It's another request to add to his growing list of Christmas food candidates.

"How many of you are there?" he says into the receiver. "Would you like us to deliver it, or can you pick it up?"

He quickly writes out the name onto his Christmas food list.

"The list is never left out for people to see," he says. It is hard for people to ask for help because many find themselves in inescapable economic situations which force them to return each year.

"Most of these people can get by with what they earn," he says, adding that many are employed in seasonal work and are laid off in the winter. "This just gives them a little bit extra."

But how would you judge a little bit extra? For a family of 2-3, the average food box contains:

- 1 bag of flour
- 1 bag of sugar
- 1 tin of milk
- 1 tin of tea or coffee
- 1 large tin of juice
- 1 package of hot or cold cereal
- 1 jar of peanut butter, jam or honey (not all "just something to put on toast")
- 2 tins of salmon or tuna
- 1 large tin of stew
- 1 large tin of spaghetti sauce and 1 package of pasta
- 2 tins of pork & beans
- 4 tins of soup
- 3 tins of fruit
- 3 tins of vegetables
- 2 packages jello or pudding
- 1 cake mix or what is available

For the holidays, the list includes a voucher for a turkey, some dairy products, fresh vegetables and fruit, courtesy of the local IGA and ValuMart grocery stores.

The size of food box varies. Gillespie says he has put together a box for one person and has sent out a box for a family of 12. "There is no such thing as an average food box."

But food is not the only item that can be found within each Christmas food box. Each box will include a suitable toy and an article of clothing, wrapped and ready to put under the tree.

Like the food items, the toys and clothes are donated by churches, concerned citizens and various organizations, including the Legion and the Rotary Club which donated $600 to the drive.

"Many times I don't even know where this stuff comes from," he says, telling me about the envelope he found with a $20 bill in it just sitting on his desk

SSFC halts expansion plans

by BRIAN RODNICK
Staff Reporter

Sir Sandford Fleming College will not expand its summer program after the board of education turned down its request for another week of classes at the high school.

"I believe there is a need for an expansion and would like to see it," said Sir Sandford's Barb Bolin.

She was not surprised by the board's decision after meeting with several trustees a few weeks ago. "We rely on the goodwill of the board. But they have their needs too."

But news of the board's decision disappointed Curtis Eastmure who spoke before the board as a representative of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce. "Obviously the education of the kids comes first," he said. "But I don't think the board has taken a good hard look at using the high school."

He feels both sides could come to some agreement to benefit all parties, but that the board did not seem willing to do that.

"The public has to take a good hard look at who is sitting around that table."

Although the Chamber is not a political group, Eastmure felt it was necessary to stand before the board. "It shows Sir Sandford how much this community relies on them."

Last summer at least 1700 people attended classes and Bolin said space was really tight. This meant using all but one classroom in Haliburton Highlands Secondary School for classes. This year Bolin said she will ask to use the remaining classroom.

She added the board's suggestion of splitting up the program between J. Douglas Hodgson and Archie Stouffer Elementary in Minden, would not work.

"Part of the experience of coming to summer school is to have the whole group together," she said. Families who take courses would not appreciate being sent to different locations.

Bolin also said all the students get together at least four times a week and HHSS is the only school large enough to accommodate them.

Board suggests other school prepare the school for the returning students.

"I spoke with Sir Sandford's president, Dr. Brian Desbiens," said Director of Education Stuart Baker, "and he said our first priority has to be with the students of Haliburton."

At a board meeting in October, it was suggested the needs of both Sir Sandford and HHSS could be met by hiring extra cleaning staff, with Sir Sandford paying any additional costs.

This idea was rejected. "I would caution trustees, we have a very firm agreement with the custodians' union of not hiring outside help," said Baker.

Instead of just limiting Sir Sandford's classes to HHSS, the board once again brought up the suggestion of using J. Douglas Hodgson or Archie Stouffer Elementary in Minden.

"I think we are trying to squeeze too much into one school," said Superintendent Dale Robinson. "I see nothing wrong offering a space at Archie Stouffer. It's only 24 km away," said Baker, adding Minden businesses would also benefit from the tourist trade and that both schools have tiled classrooms which could handle any messy courses.

He added accommodation has to be found where it can.

Community fuels food drive

one morning.

"The food drive is a community affair. Most of the stores in town have collection boxes."

The push to get these boxes into as many locations as possible is due in part to the BIA which has been urging local stores to take part. Each of the boxes will be marked with a poster of a Christmas elf, printed at The Echo.

"The town is just saturated with places you can donate," says Gillespie. But donations are not just restricted to food and toys. If you like to knit you can donate any wears to either the wooly goods tree located in Haliburton's Bank of Montreal, or the tree in the Home Support office.

These items will be picked off the tree and wrapped and sent off when the boxes are packaged in a couple of weeks.

Regardless of how much help the food drive receives, Gillespie wishes the food boxes were not needed. "I'd like to see no food banks, but I don't know when that day will ever come."

If you would like some more information about the 4Cs food drive, please call 457-3331 between 10 am and 3 pm.

DID I MISS ANYTHING? Stanhope Reeve Harry Davis reads off a list of Thelda McGuire's accomplishments as she accepts her award at the municipality's Christmas party on Saturday. 'I'm totally shocked,' she says.

New 'native' Citizen of the Year

by BRIAN RODNICK
Staff Reporter

She has only lived in Haliburton County two years and already Stanhope has named her Citizen of the Year.

This is the thought which ran through Thelda McGuire's mind when Stanhope Reeve Harry Davis announced her name at Saturday's annual Christmas fete.

"I didn't suspect a thing. It was a total shock," says Mrs. McGuire the next day.

"I always thought the award went to someone who has lived in the community for at least sixty years," jokes the mother of three.

But as Davis clearly pointed out to the 120 guests at the party, Mrs. McGuire has accomplished enough things as Chairman of Stanhope's Recreation Committee to last a lifetime.

"Under her guidance we have had a most successful year," Davis told the crowd at the Firefighters' Hall.

To list all of things Mrs. McGuire has done would require a lot of space. To name just a few:

The Soda Club — where teens from all over the county can meet twice a month at the firehall and "hang out". They listen to music and play games. "This was much needed up here, there was no place for kids to go. As a mother with young kids (ages 3,7,8) I thought, 'What are they going to do with their free time?'"

Giving in

In local politics no less than in other dimensions of life, the easiest path is seldom the most rewarding. It is always harder to stick to one's principals, to bear the sting of criticism, to face challenges with determination and strive for the higher plane, where what is right takes precedence over what is merely expedient.

Last week, faced with two difficult decisions, the majority of Haliburton County Board of Education trustees chose expediency over principal. They sought easy solutions to challenges that begged a more creative approach. They gave in when they should have stood firm, and in so doing, they did the community a disservice.

The first decision concerned Sir Sandford Fleming College's request to add another week to its summer School of Fine Arts programme. This request should not have come as any surprise to trustees or administrators. The importance of Sir Sandford to the community is enormous. It brings vitality and creativity to the community, enhancing educational and cultural opportunities, and making a significant contribution to the local economy. The school brings a measure of sophistication to the community, and contributes in no small way to positioning Haliburton as a more attractive tourist destination. The School of Fine Arts must be allowed to flourish, for if its growth is constrained, if its ambitions are stultified, the day may come when it will move elsewhere.

The school's request to offer an additional week of classes was entirely reasonable. It would involve some inconvenience to board of education staff, no doubt, but nothing that could not have been resolved with reason and goodwill. And yet trustees chose the easy path. They turned down Sir Sandford's request. Why would they do so, despite the obvious importance of the summer school to the community, and despite the reasoned representation of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, which supports the school's efforts and recognizes its need to grow? The answer appears to be that the board caved in to a union local. There is no justification for not compressing caretakers' cleaning schedule to meet the school of Fine Arts' needs. If overtime costs are the issue, the funds could be raised through course fees. If staffing is the issue, vacations could be rescheduled, as they are in private enterprise. If an unwillingness to put in extra hours is a factor, that would be a sad comment on the state of the work ethic. Local business owners and their employees work double shifts in the summer when they have to, because that is what success in the local marketplace demands. Surely a similar accommodation could be made in the interests of supporting an institution that is vitally important to the community's future. Trustees should have responded more creatively to Sir Sandford's needs. Perhaps a future board will take the higher road.

A higher road also beckoned when trustees grappled with the problem of students smoking near the historic locomotive at Haliburton high school. It has taken the board four years to implement a policy that progressively banned smoking from school property. It began with designated smoking areas inside schools, then banned smoking by staff inside buildings, and finally addressed the most important issue, telling students and the public that they could not smoke anywhere on school property. No one can argue that policy is unreasonable. The litany of dangers posed by smoking is familiar to all Canadians. If the policy made it inconvenient for students to smoke, so much the better. Trustees weren't overly concerned when a small number of teachers and staff were inconvenienced by other phases of the policy.

If the train was a dangerous place to smoke, because of traffic moving in and out of the school, students should have been forced to move elsewhere, farther away from board property, not back on to it. Years ago smoking was banned not only on school property but anywhere near it, and the administration at that time enforced the rule. Giving in sends students a message, but not one they ought to hear.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

OUR READERS WRITE...

To the Editor:

This Thursday, December 6, will mark the anniversary of the killing of 14 women engineering students in Montreal. They died only because they were women cloosing a traditionally male occupation, and to Marc Leprieu they represented a threat to male power.

To many people these killings represent not only the terrible deed of an obviously damaged individual, but also the extreme edge of a continuing mental, emotional, and physical assault on women everywhere. The perpetrators are members of a society that demonstrates in its entertainment, its advertising, often in its educational system and certainly in its budgeting at all levels of government, attitudes which condone violence against vulnerable people, devalue women and their contributions, and encourage patriarchal values of power over others, progress and victory at any cost.

We are all surrounded by these attitudes, and it requires courage and caring to create awareness of them, and to transcend them in order to create supportive community where we all have the opportunity to grow up whole.

As one small step, several of us will be gathering on Thursday, Dec. 6th at noon beside Windsurfinn in Haliburton, to remember the 14 women who died in Montreal, and the many, many others who have been killed or injured in domestic violence. I hope that many of your readers will join us then. First mourn, then work for change.

Caroline Bishop,
Haliburton.

Some words can't be ignored

THROUGH THE PERISCOPE

MARTHA PERKINS

THIS COLUMN has been brewing for a long time. When I saw Caroline Bishop's Letter to the Editor and remembered the Montreal massacre, I thought it's time to put my thoughts together.

On several fronts, the voices for freedom are rallying against censorship. Whether it's against an exhibition of photographs in Cincinnati, a New York rap group's lyrics, or a publishing house which refused to distribute a book which graphically depicts violence against women, these freedom criers say freedom means having the ability to say whatever we want. Yet they often ignore the flip side of such a belief.

"Liberty means responsibility," wrote George

Bernard Shaw. "That is why most men dread it." As an editor, a person who makes her living by using words to create images, I am supposed to be standing in solidarity with all people's expressions of, what should I call it, creativity? I call it the arts world being duped by the emperor's new clothes.

Rather than allying myself with fellow writers, I feel my role as a member of society holds far more weight. Why should I stand idly by, or worse yet be supportive, when people use their voice to demean and denigrate others, thereby helping to set a standard which measures society's tolerance of such acts?

Writers say a lot about the ability of words to lift our spirits, to bring us to new worlds, to open up other ways of seeing those worlds, and in the process, making us better people. Yet when it comes to words as pornography, they say those words have no impact, they are just the meaningless wanderings of someone who should simply be ignored. "I disapprove of what you say, but I will defend to the death your right to say it," Voltaire is supposed to have said.

But bad words have just as much of an effect as good ones. And not surprisingly, bad words pro-

FEIR PLAY

CREIGHTON FEIR

THE CHRISTMAS LIGHTS and decorations are going up and this all goes to remind us that the holiday season is heading our way. This is also the time of the year when you turn on your radio or television and you are reminded of Christmas when you hear them singing such old favourites as White Christmas, Here comes Santa Claus, and I'll be home for Christmas. These yuletide songs tell us that Santa is on his way. Children and adults alike will be counting the days remaining before old St. Nick pays us his annual visit. Yes, it won't be too much longer before we will be saying goodbye to the old year of 1990 and welcome in the new year of 1991. In looking back over the past year we find that the world went through some good times and we stumbled through some bad times. It was a year of reform for many countries when they turned away from communism for a taste of democracy. It was also the year that East and West finally tore down the wall in Germany to join together as one. Each and every day as the year went on it appeared that we were drawing closer to having peace in this world. People in various countries around the world were beginning to smile once again and it seems that happy days were here again. That was until near the end of the year when Iraq with its leader Saddam Hussein took over Kuwait. In a move that may lead to all-out war in the Persian Gulf, The U.N. Security Council has authorized the use of force against Iraq if it doesn't pull out of Kuwait by January 15th. So we face this Christmas 1990 with the threat of war hanging over our heads. Here in Canada as the year draws to a close we are up to our necks in a recession which some analysts say will last another twelve months. We hope that they are wrong. Through it all we can't throw up our hands and say well it's all over. We must carry on with business as usual and try to see this thing through. With a recession and the threat of war in the Persian Gulf I think that it's also a time for all of us to give thanks for having the privilege of living in such a great country as Canada.

It's always good to hear from an old friend. Last week Steve Walling, a former Haliburton native who now resides outside of Woodville, Ontario, phoned me about a Pic of the Past which appeared in The Echo of an old photo taken near the end of the lake and the present High School. Steve, who is retired, tells me that he's very interested in photography and we have a great old chat about subjects that related to the village of Haliburton in the past and at the present time. Steve and his late brother Lester operated Wallings Dairy for many years in this community.

Bruce Malott dropped me off a note the other day in connection with the Pic of the Past that appeared in our paper on November 28th. He wished to inform me that the caption under a picture of Vivian Sisson standing beside the Gull River in Minden with two cars in the background contained some misinformation. Bruce notes that the two vehicles in the photo were Model A Fords, not Model T. It appears that the Model T's came out before 1928 and the Model A's appeared only from 1928 to 1931. Bruce, who grew up driving and working on these cars, went on to say that in 1932 it was the B-4's and in 1933 and V8's were on the market.

In my column a few weeks ago I mentioned that the local business people were fed up with every Tom, Dick and Harry entering their places of business to solicit money for this cause or that regatta or sports event. This week I received some good news when I was informed that the Haliburton Senior Curling Club have taken the first step to correct this problem by going out and raising their own money through various projects. The local merchants will welcome this news with open arms and hope that other people and organizations who are always asking the business people for money will follow the Senior Curling Club's example.

Doug Hodgson phoned the other day to let me know that the Minister of Labour and Consumer Affairs for the Province of Newfoundland is a former student of Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. Her name is Patricia Cowan. She was from Carnarvon, Ontario, the daughter of George Cowan. Doug saw her on TV recently. He receives Newfoundland CBC station on his satellite dish.

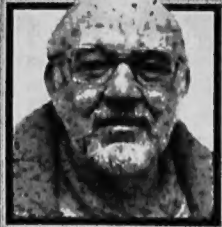

Here, there and everywhere . . . Bob Fyfe, John Beachli, Brian Holden, Jon Lansdowne, John Cawker and Frank Powers all of Haliburton, spent last week vacationing and golfing in North Carolina . . . ## POINTS OF VIEW

Pass me my "MacBible"

AS OTHERS SEE IT

BOB GIULIANO

KEEP YOUR HEAD about you, your minister is about to demand a computer for the church. (If he/she hasn't already). A recent church publication devoted the entire magazine to "personal" computers. The ads alone will thrill you: "Seek and you will find — Instantly" professes the sellers of the "MacBible".

Of course computers have been around the churches for a long time: keeping membership files straight, addressing labels, cataloguing envelope contributions, writing committee reports and of course writing sermons and supplying "20,000 sermon illustrations", easily accessed by subject or text. But it seems funny to me when I read of "Power Church Plus!", the software that guarantees to turn my church around and put us all on the ecclesiastical map. "CompuChurch" and "S.C.A.M.P." (Simplified Church Accounting & Membership Program) promise only to be a modest managerial assistant down at the church, but "SuperChurch" — now that's what everyone has got to get into.

"SuperChurch", when fed the proper data week by week spits out recommended prayers, hymns, sermon outlines and illustrations that correct last week's errors and builds on the "market response" so that in three years your church membership and budget will increase by 300 percent. "SuperChurch" tracks member's attendance profiles and the does interest inventories so that the consumer (Church member) feeds in likes and dislikes each week so that chart "SuperChurch's" planning for next Sunday and the weeks ahead. "Guaranteed success!"

If "SuperChurch" is not to your liking how about "Paraclete Software" or "Parson's Technology"? Both promise personal guidance to enhance your personal relationships and ministry. There is even a title for scholars called, "Hermeneutika". This little friend provides the Bible researcher with Greek and Hebrew texts as well as four different English translations for every passage.

Which brings me to tell you about the electronic Bibles, some of which you can hold in your hand and find the passage you are looking for instantly. There is the "Bible Scholar", the "fastest, friendliest, most versatile Bible Study software available anywhere, at any price." (Fastest gun in the west, I guess.) However, the "Online Bible" professes more work for you. It accesses the Greek and Hebrew Lexicon and defines each word accurately. It cross references Old and New Testaments or you can use the automatic concordance. It has a split screen feature, too. That, I suppose is to read two texts at once, saving time in one's study of scripture.

The "Online Bible" is lauded as "the easiest to use and has the greatest resources", by Firefighters for Christ.

Well there is "Kingdom Computers", "MegaWord" (which is a "Megastep" beyond any other Bible software), "Biblesoft" (which includes a note pad window for your own occasional thoughts) and "Kingdom age Software" to fit any personal computer the church may have invented when Bill or Jan bought a new one.

If it is all a bit confusing you may contact Adam Church Management Systems who can put it all together for you and you can subscribe to the hottest bit of stuff on the market called the "Christian Computing Magazine".

Your minister will have names and addresses.

We're not immune from the bad

THROUGH THE PERISCOPE

MARTHA PERKINS

voke bad actions. (Oh, but that's not proven, those against censorship say. Ha. Tell me that the growing violence in our society is coming out of nowhere.)

The problem is in defining bad. Because that's almost a hopeless task, some people assume that means there is no such thing as bad. Ergo, people don't have the right to stifle someone's creative voice. That voice, by being heard, therefore becomes legitimate, acceptable.

What about the right to feel secure in our homes or in our society? What happens when a woman's right to be respected as an individual is taken away by people who want to portray women as nothing but an empty shell, here for the gratification of others?

There is cause and effect, and proof of this would be endless. Again, if we can be influenced by the good — religion, good parenting, good relationships — why do some then argue that we are immune from the bad — pornography, written or filmed acts of violence, books and pictures which bring people down to their basest level?

I should make something clear: I would "defend to the death" the Margaret Lawrence books some people try to take off the shelves because one character mentions a four-letter word and a woman has sex before she gets married. I do not blush to see Venus de Milo partially unrobed or David standing there with no shame. Some art glorifies the human body and soul; some books masterfully capture scenes from our times while retaining respect for the characters.

I wish I could say in print what I was against. I wish I could be as blunt as The Globe and Mail, for example, which graphically described some of the Mapplethorpe photos and printed excerpts from the book mentioned above. But I can't, because my standards of decency won't allow me to.

So it makes it difficult for me to dispel another common misconception: all shock and horror at some of the things being written and created comes from people locked in the Victorian age. It's as if, they argue, time is gently eroding a set of Puritanical values — what was shocking in 1860 was commonplace in 1900; what caused outrage in 1900 was barely given passing notice in 1950. . .

What will total erosion reveal? Those against censorship seem to think it's man in its purest sense; man without all the trappings of a repressive society; man set free to be exactly who he (or she) wants to be. I do not put so much faith in man.

Society has got to understand there are limits, that there is sometimes not much difference between women being murdered in print and those murdered in real life, no matter what the author's rights of expression are. Those women in Montreal had a right to still be alive today.

Memories are what matter

DOWN OUR ROAD

SHARON LYNCH

WOULD THIS BE the Christmas she would tell grandchildren about? So far it didn't even feel like Christmas. There were too many distractions. The TV and radio were full of them. Government cutbacks; people losing their jobs and walking away from their homes: hard times. Lyn remembered when it was bad ten years ago. But there was a different feeling in the air this time. A cynicism coupled with helplessness that she hadn't seen before. She heard people say things now she never thought she'd hear. They spoke of just surviving the winter, of getting through it. Dissatisfaction with government was running high. And over it all hung the shadow of war. One woman had said she had a twenty-four-year-old son and had started to wonder if he might be called to war.

The radio started playing Christmas music early this year, or so it seemed to Lyn. Maybe it was to try to get everyone in the buying mood. Merchants knew times were tough and predicted to get tougher. People had less money and what they had they were hanging on to as long as they could. It would be a more austere holiday season for many this year. "How gloomy it all is," she thought to herself as she perused a store bedecked with tinsel and big red bows. Then the phone rang that night. Not once, but twice.

Two close friends of her parents, and people she had known all her life, were in the hospital. One had gone in for routine surgery and the doctors had found cancer. No treatment was recommended. The second had been in failing health for a year but a bout with the flu had put him in the hospital. He was told he'd never be able to return to his little house.

Lyn had to go to Toronto the next morning on business, so she decided to leave early and visit the old friends. The hospitals, only blocks from each other, brought back memories of when her own parents had died. Those memories made a big impression on her at the time but eventually they faded as she became involved in the daily struggle of a job, children and paying the bills. "You think you will always remember," she thought, pushing the down button on the elevator. The importance of life; one day at a time; the fragility of your own existence. But we all forget — until we're reminded again.

It's like skidding on an icy road. Suddenly, you forget about your day at the office or what to have for dinner. You're just glad to be alive. And you're careful, at least for awhile. The secret is to keep that gladness alive every day, without the need for reminders.

The drive back to Haliburton was long and quiet. She had turned off the car radio for a change and enjoyed the silence. There were hardly any cars on the highway and thank goodness the weather was clear. A sign up ahead beckoned her in for coffee, so she pulled over and ordered a large one to go. There were a few other people in the restaurant. A

PIC OF THE PAST

This young lady was born in Dysart township and lived all her eighty-one years in Haliburton. After a fire her parents and four brothers moved to Haliburton from Harburn. While growing up she planned to teach school, but instead became a book keeper for the George Earl Store. This is where she met her husband, who had come from Burnt River to oversee wood collection for the Donald Chemical plant. Together they raised their family, but always found time for community activities. She was a founding member of St. George's W.A. and was associated with the Red Cross Society from its founding, serving for 17 years as its treasurer. She became a charter member and past matron of the Eastern Star. She also served as a member and chair person of the Dysart School Board for eight years. She had the privilege of representing the secondary school board at a meeting of County Council for their approval of construction of the Haliburton County High School. A busy life! Many will remember her as Phyllis (Dart) Hodgson wife of Clayton Hodgson. Photo and write-up courtesy of Tom Hodgson, Oshawa, Ontario.

Where is my mind lately?

NORTHERN LIGHTS

VIRGINIA MUENZEL

HAVE YOU SEEN MY HAT? My toque is missing. My hand-knit by Lyn (to match the lovely ski sweater Ed gave me last Christmas), large enough to sneak a pair of ear muffs under, off-white and green toque. And I'm really bugged, because I've obviously left it somewhere I've been, along with my old, but comfy, black Isotoner gloves. That, or I've put the thing in a new and wonderful place, which I will come upon in the middle of next July's heat wave.

Don't laugh! I do these things from time to time lately. It's enough to make me question my mental capacity, except that I know there's all kinds of people out there doing the self-same thing. And some of them are a whole lot younger than I.

It drives me nuts all the same. Last week I finally accidentally came upon the fennel seeds I'd been searching out for two months. I knew I had them. I even remembered that I had put them in a container when I cleaned kitchen drawers and cupboards. But what container and where . . . who knew? I must have ripped through that kitchen four or five times in a less than amicable temper trying to find those dumb seeds. But last week I went to put some sunflower seeds in my rice dish, and there, in a miss-labeled jar, was my fennel.

How many times have you discovered something you had given up hope of finding last summer, while you were furiously searching for an item that went missing yesterday. Or walked purposefully into a room only to suddenly wonder why you wanted to go there. Or gotten distracted in the midst of a conversation and completely forgot what you were discussing. Last Sunday, I was making Lasagna, and I thought I'd gone mad. The pasta, which I knew had been in my cupboard for ages, was gone. Thank goodness Ed remembered it being there also, or I'd have committed myself. But neither one of us could recall what had become of it.

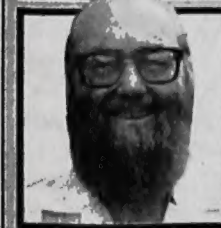

For awhile, the whole phenomenon was scaring me, what with the Alzheimer thing, and the memory of my mother-in-law's dying mind. Then someone told me that if I had Alzheimers, I wouldn't be aware of what I was forgetting. True or not, it eased my mind.

Lately, when someone else confesses to forgetfulness, I tell them, "It must be the acid rain, because it's happening to everyone."

You don't suppose that could be true?

Boobos of the year 1990

THE VIEW FROM HERE

HARVEY CLARKE

IT'S THAT TIME of the year again when we review some of the stranger stories of the past twelve months, just as we have for the past six Decembers. And for starters, let's look at some of the classic boobos of 1990.

Take for instance the French publishers of a major dictionary whose color plates used black and red coding to indicate the differences between edible mushrooms and their poisonous lookalikes. Trouble is, on one page, they got the color codes reversed.

Petit Larousse have recalled the 180,000 copies put on the market in Canada, Belgium, France and Switzerland at $79.95 a crack. Must have been something the printer was smoking.

In Toronto, I think the booboos of the year happened at the end of the jewellery manufacturers' trade show at the Convention Centre last July. Charles Laiman was walking back to his white Cadillac with $500,000 in diamonds when a bystander

Kevin Morissette unleashes a slapshot against Bancroft on Sunday

Team works together to pull off tourney win

At its best, hockey is a game of teamwork and finesse, not brute strength, and Haliburton's J. D. Robinson Contruction Bantams proved it over the weekend. Their fast skating and disciplined passing were more than a match for every team they faced, including Port Hope, a team that had been favoured to win the three day tournament hosted by the Haliburton club.

A total of 12 teams participated in the tourney which began Friday evening and wrapped up late Sunday afternoon.

In their opening match, Haliburton skated to an easy 6-2 defeat of Peterborough. Marksmen for the J. D. Robinson club were Greg Stamp, Corbie Kent, Jeff Black, Kevin Morissette, Jamie Keefer and Steve McCracken.

Star of the game was Corbie Kent.

Game two for the Haliburton boys proved more of a challenge, but they were up to it, edging Bancroft 3-2 on goals by Greg Stamp, Kevin Morissette and Jonathan Bishop. Mark Morissette was named star of the game.

In game three, Haliburton dug in to hold their opponents from Oakridges scoreless. Corbie Kent had a pair of goals and Kevin Morissette fired in a single to give Haliburton a 3-0 win. Goaltender Peter Brohman recorded the shutout. Star of the game was Jonathan Bishop.

Haliburton's toughest test came in the semi finals when they faced off against Bracebridge, a club which has given them trouble in previous encounters.

The teams were tied at three at the end of three periods, but in overtime, Haliburton prevailed, as Paul Hewitt drove in the winner, his second goal of the game. Kevin and Mark Morissette scored singles, with Kevin earning star of the game honours.

The excitement was tangible as the J.D. Robin-

Locals win in 'classic' match

The Keith Jackson Real Estate PeeWees travelled to Omeme for a tournament on the weekend and came away victors.

In the first game, Keith's boys were challenged by Warkworth. Haliburton was a far superior team coming away with a 6-0 win. Tim Keefer opened the scoring with a power play goal assisted by Derek Glendinning. Glendinning connected next on a nice set up from Michael Hartwick and Matt Galbraith. Jackie Morrison scored next with Michael Hartwick assisting. The following play saw Michael Hartwick score on a pass from Jackie Morrison. Derek Glendinning scored again early in the third period on a fine pass from Jon Hebert. Curtis Reynolds closed out the scoring with assists going to Tim Stouffer and Jackie Morrison. Brock Glendinning collected both a shut out and cold feet.

Brock got a lot more work in the second game when the Real Estate squad took on Stroud. Stroud had just beaten Bancroft 8-0 and appeared to have a star-studded line up. Unfortunately for Stroud, they thought the best way to win was to intimidate. As a result, they took many penalties. On their very first penalty, Derek Glendinning turned the defenceman inside out and laid a perfect pass to Tim Keefer who powered the puck into the gaping net. Keefer scored just moments later on a pass from Bill Koz. Stroud took another penalty and Haliburton's power play went to work again. Glendinning set up Keefer for yet another goal. Jeff Treleven got Stroud on the scoreboard but Glendinning answered quickly with a goal assisted by Tim Stouffer. The rest of the game was the "Tim Keefer Show"! Tim scored three unanswered goals while making his physical presence felt and staying out of the penalty box.

The final pitted Lakefield against Haliburton in what proved to be a classic hockey game. The first period was a tight checking affair with few chances at either end. Tim Keefer scored the winner only 32 seconds into the second period. The rest of the game saw Haliburton play tight defensive hockey with Brock Glendinning making some outstanding saves in the net. The final score: Haliburton 1—Lakefield 0.

Keith's boys enjoyed an excellent weekend scoring 14 goals while allowing just one. Goal scoring brings glory but defence wins games. Congratulations go out to Curtis Bain, Tim Stouffer, Matt Galbraith, Jackie Morrison and, of course, Brock Glendinning, who were near perfect defensively.

Character gives squad its extra punch to win

by ROB CRAIGEN

If Hockey doesn't build character but rather reveals it, then the OMHA Novice Huskies are a squad loaded with the stuff. The Nicholls boys won their second consecutive tournament with a heart stopping 3-2 overtime thriller over Orono, stretching their record the past two weekends to an impressive 7 wins, 0 losses, 1 tie.

Along the route came an opening 4-2 win against Omeme and a 6-3 decision over the Host Ops Club.

The line of Kenny Ablett, Greg Forgrave and Chris Nimigon came charging from the gate in the Omeme game and before the first shift was over had provided the Huskies with a two goal lead, courtesy of Ablett and Forgrave. Omeme never stopped skating, though. And later goals by Mike Craigen and another by Forgrave became necessary in the 4-2 win.

A determined effort from start to finish was needed to knock off the inspired hometown Ops team and the score sheet was a pretty good indicator of the Huskies willingness to play sound, unselfish hockey. Sticking to the "Paul Principle", the boys rarely broke down and made some of the prettiest passing plays of the season in this big win. Greg Forgrave led the way with his second straight two goal game, Cole Glendinning blasted one in from the point and Kenny Ablett, Mike Morissette and Mike Craigen added one apiece.

The tournament final was not one for the faint of heart. Orono put a big strong bunch of boys on the ice with a lot of skill and skating ability, but this was where the Husky Character kicked in. Ryan Wood, battling in a land of giants all year long and especially on this day, set up Mike Morissette for the game's opening goal early in the first period. Morissette rifled a heavy shot over Orono Goaltender Mike Gibson's outstretched glove hand and thus became the first sniper of the day to get a shot past the talented little player. Gibson had registered a shut out in this first game and then given up only a single goal on a scramble with 11 seconds to play in game two. His acrobatics earned him the most valuable player award in the final game, and despite long sessions of constant pressure in the Orono end. Goals remained a rarity in an intensely fought championship game. Cole Glendinning, Bobby Hebert, and Jamie Johnson continually skated off attackers in the Haliburton zone and goaltender Brian Mulholland enjoyed a career day to keep the game in range.

With under three minutes to play in the game, the Huskies found themselves down 2-1 but an alert

Game plan unbalances team's aggressive rival

son boys skated through the warmup for the final confrontation against Port Hope. The lakeshore club was big and aggressive, and led by a player considered on of the top Bantam prospects in the country, Jonathan Smith.

Haliburton's game plan was the keep Port Hope off balance with quick passing and diligent defense, and it worked perfectly. Smith was held scoreless, while Haliburton was able to break out of their own zone at will.

Corbie Kent was the game's top scorer, netting two goals, but he also figured in much of the play-making, holding the puck to draw defenders to him, and then firing accurate passes to his linemates. Steve McCracken, Paul Hewitt and Kevin Morissette scored singles to cap a 5-2 win that gave Haliburton the tournament title. Paul Hewitt was named star of the game.

The tournament was sponsored by Kosy Korner Restaurant, Sid Stamp Fuels, and Picard and Holden, with donations from Valu-Mart and Country Rose flower and gift shop.

This weekend the J. D. Robinson Bantams will travel to Bancroft for another chance at a tournament victory.

Team finds its glass slippers

THIS WEEK IN THE M.H.L.

by: CHIP TRUEMAN

ELSTONE MOTORS MADE it three in a row on Sunday as they out-scored Haliburton Lumber 5-2. The Chrysler reps are quickly becoming the "Cinderella" team of 1990. Their record has recently improved to 4 and 5 with one of those victories taking place against Roberts-Austin Fuels. Haliburton Lumber on the other hand, has fallen into a tie for last place with Bishop and Wilson. Scoring for the lumbermen on this night were Norm Barry and Randy Bird. Motormen goals were spread out between Dave Hicks, Greg Bishop, Kim Emmerson, Steve Cooper and Steve Wilcox.

Dave Elstone, who played an outstanding game in match one, took a quick rest and went on to spoil the efforts of Bishop and Wilson in game two. In total, Elstone only let in four goals in six periods of hockey. As a result, Vasey Insurance's record is now 7 and 2. The Brokers remain tied for first place with Roberts-Austin. The score in this one by the way, was 7-2. Getting the two, were Joe Roberts and Tran LaRue. The seven were from John Little (2), Glen Fick (2), Carl Rowbotham, Kevin Phillips and Bernie Upton.

The third game on Sunday night was definitely the one to watch. Roberts-Austin needed a win to protect their place in the standings. Emmerson Lumber needed a win to better their's. When all was said and done, the oilmen left the arena with the two points. Final score: Roberts-Austin 7, Emmerson Lumber 4. Wade MacInnes, Bob Woodcock, Mark Schell, Paul Howe, Phil Barry and Chris Nelthorpe put the puck in the net for R-AS. Doing the same for Emmerson's were Derrell Stamp, Roy Boughner and Roy Scott. The lumbermen are now tied for third with a 5 and 4 record.

I'll tell you fans, this week's late game was no sleeper. At that time of night I certainly was, but the game itself was not. Youngdale's Fuels, whom I started talking about last week before I was interrupted, faced off against Curry Motors and what a see-saw battle it was. However, with the score tied at six late in the third, Curry's put it into high gear, scored four times and won 10-6. Ken Riley, Chris Hodgson, Andy Salvatori, Ron Perrin, Hardy Kraft, Andy Hodgson and Ryse Jenkins all contributed to the motormen win. Curry Motors now hold on to sole position of second place with a count of 6 and 4. A win would have given Youngdale's that spot, but due to the loss, the oilmen drop to 5 and 4. Mike Rae, Roger Bain, Glen Scully, Ken Barry and Tim Chambers accounted for Youngdale's goals.

I'm Chip and that was . . . THIS WEEK IN THE M.H.L.

Novices take 8th win

Haliburton's tri county Novice hockey team pushed their record so far this season to eight wins and no losses, outscoring Bobcaygeon 7-3 on Saturday to remain undefeated.

Logan Roberts, Scott Curry and Andrew Brown each scored two goals, while Shane Campbell scored one to round out the winning effort. Assisting on the goals were Adam Wilson with two, Adam Henry and Ryan Kirkpatrick.

Rounding out the team effort was the fine play of Kyle Robinson, Danny Koz, Graham Schakalar, and Kori Roberts in goal.

Redmen pick up pace

Things are looking up for the Haliburton Redmen these days. After a disappointing start, the high school hockey club has notched a win and a tie in their last three outings. The win came at home last Wednesday night when they defeated I.E. Weldon 7-5 in a hard fought game at the Dysart arena. The day before, the HHSS boys lost 3-2 to Lindsay Collegiate on the road, but they played well, setting up a number of chances for goals that just failed to connect.

Jason Billings and Wyatt Nesbitt scored the goals in the loss to LCVI. On Wednesday, the Redmen were paced by Jason Billings, whose outstanding offensive effort produced four goals. Greg Stamp accounted for two more, and Jason Morissette drove in one to give the local club a two goal advantage by game's end.

Tuesday, the Redmen travel to Peterborough to take on Thomas A. Stewart. On Wednesday they'll be back at home to face off against their arch rivals from Fenelon Falls.

Despite a slow start against the league's top teams, the Redmen are improving with every outing. Goal tender Billy Smith, who was shaky in the early going, is gaining confidence behind the defense, led by veteran player Phillip Johnston.

The offense is also showing marked improvement, although the loss of John Vuksic and Kyle Hewitt, who are out with injuries, is being felt.

Although this year's Redmen won't finish on top of the league, they should put several more points in the win column if they keep up the pace they've set in recent games.

Boyhood chums face-off

pass from Ryan Wood sprung Mike Craigen in alone from centre ice. A strong fake and a quick move to his backhand left the splendid Orono goaltender sprawled on his stomach and the game was, at last, tied.

The overtime was played in one minute segments with one player removed from the ice after each minute. It went right down to one skater each and still there was no scoring. The playing field often brings together old friends and the final face-off featured a fitting re-union. A lifetime ago, four-year-old Bobby Witheridge had shown his best friend around the Orono arena the first day three-year-old Mike Craigen ever laced up skates. Five years later these same two boys stood at centre ice, staring through their own sweat into each other's darkened cage, each still unaware of who the other was. Craigen was now a quick, darting centre and Witheridge was a smooth, powerful defenseman who had scored both his team's goals. Each was determined to bring a championship back to his own bench.

The final confrontation was over almost immediately. Craigen won the draw, went straight in and won the game with the same move that had tied it earlier. And the Huskies were deserving champions.

N.B. In regularly scheduled action earlier in the week, Huskies travelled to Bobcaygeon where they posted a 4-0 win, despite playing without the services of defense pair Devon Dart and Bobby Hebert. Adam Wilson was a highly impressive emergency replacement. Greg Forgrave with two, Mike Morissette and Mike Craigen handled the scoring and Brian Mulholland turned in his third shutout in four outings.

MPP told about space dilemma

by BRIAN RODNICK
Staff Reporter

Dennis Drainville has been made aware of the school accommodation problem in Haliburton county and has asked to be kept updated on the situation.

"I told him our situation here is critical and soon we will be bursting at the seams," said trustee Cheryl Murdoch to the board of education Tuesday.

"I asked him what he could do for us."

Murdoch met with the MPP on November 2 to discuss the accommodation problem. He told her to lobby for more media coverage of the situation and asked that he be kept up to date on any new developments.

Murdoch said the meeting went well and believes her message of more government support was well taken.

Drainville said he would try to arrange a tour of the area by the new Minister of Education Marion Boyd. The former minister Sean Conway toured the schools last year and the board received his support.

The board has decided two additions will have to be built to alleviate crowding, one onto the Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden and the other onto the J.

Douglas Hodgson School in Haliburton. The latter would house the students of the Victoria Street School.

The board has received its entire allocation from the ministry for the next two years. This leaves a 1993 starting date for any major construction.

firehall and share craft ideas.

This is right up Mrs. McGuire's alley since she attended the Ontario College of Art in Toronto.

But besides thinking up new activities for Stanhope residents, Mrs. McGuire was instrumental in putting together the Jive for Jaws dance which raised over $700 for the Jaws For Life campaign.

And it was through her fundraising ideas that new playground equipment was purchased for the Elvin Johnson Park on Halls Lake. Her next goal is to buy some new equipment for the Stanhope Park.

"We try to do what we can," she says and passes the credit onto her co-workers on the Recreation Committee for believing in her.

What then does this very busy Halls Lake resident do when she isn't working for the township? How about acting as den mother to her son's cub group.

In fact, Davis credited her with preventing the Minden Cub Scout club from disappearing.

"Being the way I am, I enrolled my son and the next thing I knew they were handing me a uniform." She acts as second in command to the cub leader.

Being extremely busy is nothing new for this lady. Before moving to Halls Lake two years ago, she has held down a resume full of jobs.

This includes working as Public Relations officer for eight years to Senator Allister Grosart, selling pianos, acting as editor for in house gossip sheet for the accounting firm of Dunwoody Limited.

For nineteen years her and husband Ian have been coming to Halls Lake and one day they decided to move up from the city, to enjoy a slower pace.

Slower pace for Thelda McGuire? Hardly.

"Don't ask me how I do the things I do, otherwise I might have to sit down and figure it out. I'm busy, but I enjoy it."

ROOM TO GROW IN: Haliburton Veterinary Services has a new home on Highway 121, with lots more room for cats, dogs (the horses come later) and the people who will take care of them. In the new surgery are Dr. Laurie Brown, Janet Bradley and Debbie Berry (who really does work there, contrary to a previous outline.)

Motherhood has changed the face of the Haliburton Veterinary Services.

Two-and-a-half years ago, Dr. Laurie Brown was already short on space at the Industrial Park clinic. With the arrival of daughter Sarah, Dr. Brown wished she had an extra room where Sarah could play while her mother took care of the cats and dogs.

She was not the only one hoping for a play room. Dr. Joan Grant, who fills in for Dr. Brown one day a week, has a baby boy who likes to accompany his mother to work. And Janine Stokes, who works part-time at the clinic, has two young daughters who wouldn't want to be left out of the fun.

So rest assured, in Dr. Brown's new clinic on Highway 121 there's a children's "office", crammed full of toys and important paperwork (colouring books), and decorated in Sarah's favourite colour of purple. Many mothers who work outside the home will view the room with envy.

"When I moved into the other clinic, I thought it would be big enough for all my life," says Dr. Brown during a tour of the new clinic. It's as if the old clinic had been magnified — there's roughly the same number of rooms but they're all bigger, much bigger. And big dogs will enjoy the long indoor runs she has near the cages.

In the old office, Dr. Brown did not have room for another filing cabinet. That meant she'd have to stop taking new clients, or stop making records. Neither option was feasible, so Dr. Brown hired Fred Simmons to build the new clinic. (The building is visible on the south side of Highway 121, but entrance is off Peninsula Drive. The driveway hill will be improved in the spring.) Downstairs, towels tumble in the dryer while workmen continue with several projects. Eventually, the downstairs will be turned into a clinic for large animals.

Some nights Dr. Brown is called out to a farm because a horse has cut its leg or needs immediate attention. Sometimes there's no barn to work in, and sometimes there's no electricity in the barn for lights and tools.

"It's nice to have a dry, warm, light, clean place to do minor surgery," the vet says. Ninety per cent of her calls will still be at county farms, but the clinic will include stalls for horses and cows who must be kept there over time, or who need to be restrained in a particular way to enable Dr. Brown to treat them.

"That will be a little bit in the future," she says. A grooming service should be available a little says the pellets may give the ice a rough texture, which makes it better for driving on.

By Wednesday, all signs of the storm should have abated. Temperatures may reach the plus side before they drop on Friday for a snow flurry — or a little bit of rain.

Will this snow stay on the ground? Mr. Elstone says there's only one guaranteed answer to such a question: "The snow will definitely stay until it melts."

Weather records: The month of November was the warmest since 1975. Last Tuesday and Wednesday's temperatures helped: On November 27, the mercury reached 15.5 degrees and the next day, it surpassed that by a degree.

Both, not surprisingly, are "substantial" records. The previous high for November 27 was 14.4 degrees in 1896; the high for November 28 used to be 12.8, set in 1937. "When you've got a record for 100 years, it's there for reason."

That doesn't mean more warm weather would be unheard of. On December 3, 1982, the temperature reached 15.5 and got up to 14.5 the next day. Last December, however, was one of the coldest in history.

THIS WEEK

Seniors housing project will soon get underway

After almost three years of hope, disappointment and hard work, a 40-unit non-profit senior citizens housing project, along with a non-shelter component for Home Support, will soon be underway.

Tender opening for Echo Hills Legion Apartments took place at Parklane Apartments November 27, with Board members, Cheryl Dawson, Totten Sims Hubicki consultant and Ted Wilson, TSH architect, present. Although the final contract signing with the contractor has not taken place, discussions have been held with G.J. Wiggers and Associates of Newmarket, who had the lowest bid out of eleven tenders submitted. Final approval must now come from the Ministry of Housing.

Estimated time for construction is 32 weeks, with a start up in March or April of 1991. Completion could be by November or December of 1991. The three-storey apartment complex will be built on two acres of land purchased by the Haliburton Community Housing Corporation between Eastern Avenue and Robertson Road. Accommodation will consist of seven two-bedroom units and 33 one-bedroom units. One of these units will be specially designed for handicapped and nineteen more to be handicapped convertible; that is kitchen counters and cupboards that can be raised or lowered to suit the individuals need. Switch plates and door handles in all units will be able to be reached by those in wheelchairs. The building will be of masonry construction, brick-sided, complying to both building codes and fire codes.

Construction costs will be over $3-million but under budget. Funding will come from a 35-year mortgage which is still being negotiated and will be guaranteed under the provincial program, Homes Now.

The start of construction caps the Board's effort that started in January 1987, when the Haliburton Legion Branch 129 agreed to act as the sponsoring body in a bid to get more senior citizen apartments in Haliburton. A Cobourg firm, Totten Sims Hubicki, was hired to draft a presentation to the Ministry of Housing. This received the full support of local Members of Parliament, the Dysart et al, many organizations, the various churches and the medical profession. The submission was sent to the Ministry of Housing in April of 1988, with tentative approval not being received until January 1990. Re-zoning is in place, necessary legal work completed, a well has been drilled on the property and the various applications needed have municipality. Mrs. Fryer says they don't want the bus to be a burden on taxpayers.

As well, the DYMO (DYsart MObile) bus is starting to be used on a more regular basis. Extensive residents have already benefitted from its presence — going out to lunch, taking sight-seeing tours — and now with the help of Haliburton County Home Support Services, people outside the nursing home are booking it for trips. The school board has also made inquiries because some students are in wheelchairs or need assistance.

The bus service is ideal for seniors, who may no longer have their driver's licence and find transportation difficult. With Home Support helping to co-ordinate appointments and excursions, seniors will find the bus a more economical, safe and social way to travel.

If anyone would like to book the bus, or wants more information, please phone 457-5076.

sooner than that. Other features of the clinic include a treatment room where Debbie Berry, an animal health technician, will do such tasks as giving animals their shots. There's also an operating room, x-ray table and developing room, miniature laboratory, a large pharmacy area, office space (with plenty of room for filing cabinets), an isolation area for infected animals and window sills "made extra wide for cats' bums."

"When you're a doctor, the hospital pays for (the equipment such as x-ray machine) for you, but vets have to buy it themselves," Dr. Brown says of why it will take some time for the clinic to be in full swing.

"It's just nicer to have a big open space to work in," she says as the tour concludes.

Graduates ready to face challenges

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

The students' shimmering dresses were an indication of how important the event was, but Friday's luncheon also marked the last time such a graduation would take place.

For several years, Sir Sandford Fleming College has been sponsoring the Job Entry Program. A dozen or so women would enroll, spend the next 25 weeks improving their scholastic, work and life skills and then graduate as a group, as they did Friday at Halimar Lodge.

Starting in January, however, the program will operate under a different schedule. Pending funding confirmation, five or six students will enroll each month, and working at their own speed, graduate at different times.

Although this will end the pomp and ceremony of group graduations, "the good part is we'll be able to work with the students individually," says Program Co-ordinator Lorelyn Morgan.

"It allows us to serve more people in the same space of time," she

What every tenant and landlord should know about Ontario's rent control plans.

The Ontario government plans to replace the current rent review system with rent control.

There will be full public consultation on this new system of rent control with tenants, landlords, municipalities and interested groups and individuals throughout Ontario.

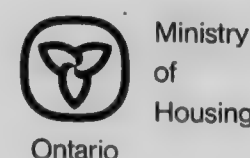

Meanwhile, the Ministry of Housing has introduced legislation which will limit rent increases while the government develops a new system of rent control.

This is a temporary measure. It will limit most rent increases to the guideline of 4.6% for 1990 and 5.4% for 1991. It will apply from October 1, 1990.

The changes are not yet law in Ontario and further information will be publicized as it becomes available.

If you have any questions regarding the Ministry's new rent control plans, please call toll-free 1-800-461-6767 or contact your local Rent Review Office listed below.

More boobos of 1990 Apartment houses Home Support

pointed to a two-dollar bill lying on the ground near his car.

When Laiman bent down to pick up the bill, the bystander grabbed his briefcase containing the diamonds and hotfooted it away to a nearby getaway vehicle. Police say the diamonds were insured, but are very difficult to trace.

In Ottawa, it was the robber who made the big booboo. Twenty-four-year-old Danny Simpson was caught after he took $6,000 from a bank teller at gunpoint last March. If he had known more about guns, he might not have tried to rob the bank.

The .45 calibre Colt handgun he used had been passed from thug to thug for years, police say, with none of them apparently knowing that it was a one-in-a-hundred collector's item. Seems the particular model was one of only 100 Colts made in Quebec City by the Ross Rifle Company in 1918.

While a gun expert valued it at $12,000 for the court, he said later that at a gun auction in the U.S. it was likely that competing bidders could take the price up into the $100,000 range. Danny got six years, and a museum is getting the gun.

But not every robber has to wait for his trial to get what's coming to him. Take the thief in Boston who was reported on last fall. Seems he was in the fish market shoplifting for dinner, and when no one was looking slipped a lobster down the front of his pants.

He might have gotten away with it, too, if he could have kept his mouth shut. But it seems the lobster's little rubber band handcuffs slipped off, and when the angry crustacean grasped hold of the first thing it could get its claws on, our robber just couldn't keep from commenting — loudly — on his predicament.

And not all the boobos happen to people, although they are definitely caused by them. In the United States, where the national debt is in the trillions, and growing by the billions, Congress and the Senate fought President Bush on budget issues — each attempting to show that they were more interested in saving the taxpayers' money than the next guy.

The American system, however, has a loophole that allows members to hit-hike pet projects onto money bills. Then, to pass the wanted parts, members — and even the president — must go along with the additions and pass the whole bill.

The appropriated bucks usually go to some project in the senator's home district, and in past years, have included such winners as an $84,000 study on why people fall in love, and $2,500. to find the causes of rudeness on the tennis court!

In a country where there are thousands of homeless and no system to cover the medical costs of those who cannot get or afford insurance, this year's biggest budget snicker in the media was the half-a-million dollars that a North Dakota member snuck through for a Lawrence Welk Museum.

Overlooked by most were some of the other winners. Like the million bucks that went to study bicycling and walking, with another $50,000 added for a staffer to oversee the study. $100,000. went to a project studying the sand on Waikiki Beach in Hawaii, a like amount for research on soybean-based ink . . . and, I kid you not, $19-million to study methane emissions from cows.

A rose by any other name.

been approved.

In addition to the apartment units the building also include laundry facilities, a lounge area, an office for the administrator, space for the maintenance person, and an elevator. A 3500-square-foot area has been designed to accommodate Haliburton County Home Support Services, the Drop-In Centre, Meals on Wheels etc. Access to the complex will be provided by a paved roadway entering from Robertson Road and a paved parking area large enough to provide adequate parking for residents, guests and those using the Home Support facilities.

It has been stipulated that local labourers and some tradespeople will be employed during construction, as well as some materials and supplies purchased from local merchants.

Rents for the apartments will be geared-to-income for 31 units and nine units will be at market rent on a par with the community average. This balance is intended to ensure rental is beneficial to the building's welfare, and to help relieve older citizens from the maintenance required to keep a home. The present waiting list, which covers both Parklane and Echo Hills Legion Apartments, numbers almost 200. With the new building, the Board hopes to decrease this list considerably.

Board members Jan Shipley and Cliff Dawson thanked all parties for their "interest, work and hold fast and firm to our purposes."

A sod Turning Ceremony may be held in the early spring, weather permitting, and the ultimate vision of the complex ready for occupancy by Christmas 1991.

Job program changes

adds. "We think it's a big step forward. We're happy to be a lot more responsive to the needs of individuals and employers."

The program is ideal for women who want to re-enter the workforce after perhaps raising a family, or those who want to enhance their list of abilities on their resume. (In the previous group, nearly all students had two or three pre-schoolers.) Emphasis is on computer and keyboarding skills, and office and retailing skills. Time is also spent on improving life skills.

"They work really hard," says Instructor/counsellor Dorothy Owen. "If we do nothing else, we present options and help to make them available," adds Morgan.

Unfortunately, this group is graduating into the best of economic times. One student is going to manage a small convenience store, three are enrolling in other SSFC courses, one is already enrolled in a SSFC program, and the rest are polishing up their resumes. The program usually has a 65 per cent success rate.

Making new memories

trucker, a young couple, two teenagers. The woman behind the counter chatted on about the weather forecast and bragged that theirs was the best coffee around, everyone said so. "Come back soon and drive safely," she smiled as she handed her customer the change. Lyn felt herself smiling as she walked back to the car. The waitress had given her a lift.

Sipping the coffee, which was very hot and very good, her mind flitted between the faces of the old friends in the hospital and those of her own family for whom she still had to buy gifts. Like most of her acquaintances, the bankbook was low this year. She tried to remember what she had given as gifts the year before and could only recall one or two. Whatever she had received was also a faded memory. But she still remembered the Christmas her father took her sliding on the hill and the first time she helped her mother make Christmas cake was as vivid in her mind as the taste of coffee was now in her mouth. Memories, good memories. "They don't have to cost a lot," Lyn thought. "They just take time."

Feeling as though she had just come up with a brilliant idea, Lyn drew up a mental list of what would make this Christmas the most memorable to herself and the ones important to her. There were all kinds of possibilities, once she really thought about it. Excited, she could hardly wait to get home and write them down before she forgot any. "I better slow down," she thought. "There's a lot of deer in the area." As though fate was reading her mind, her headlights caught the outline of a doe to her right. More shadows were humped off to the side. Two other deer waited and watched the first, as though taking their cue from it. It looked into the headlights, stunned by the glare. By now Lyn was almost at a standstill so she turned off the lights, leaving only her parking lights on. Moonlight bathed the road in a cool silvery glow. The first deer bounded across the road in front of her car and into the bush on the other side. After a moment's hesitation, the other two followed. Like the waitress back at the restaurant, the deer had given Lyn another lift. She continued on.

When she arrived home, she found the others had already gone to bed, for it was close to midnight. She, on the other hand, was all revved up. She sat down in front of the fire and jotted down some of the ideas she had earlier in the car. Then she went into the kitchen where 'Christmas Wish Lists' were prominently stuck to the frig door. Across the bottom of each list she wrote, 'One memory, good for a lifetime'. "That will get them wondering," she thought to herself. Then calling the dog, she decided to go for a walk down by the lake. It was a shame to waste that moonlight.

A new administrative assistant will be hired by the board of education to look after the needs of Archie Stouffer Elementary students and staff who attend classes at the old IGA building in Minden.

"McKay Brydon (principal of Archie Stouffer) has two schools to look after," said trustee Walley Bunn to the board Tuesday. "He needs someone in charge of the IGA building to look after things in ordering supplies, or if someone gets hurt."

The old IGA building houses the 116 Kindergarten and Grade 1 students.

The building was re-zoned three years ago to handle the overflow of students from Archie Stouffer. This was to be a temporary situation until funds were available to build a new addition onto Archie Stouffer.

The building was re-zoned again last month to be used as a school for at least another three years.

"In governing 600 people at two locations generates a lot of paper work," said Brydon. "I will need help to keep things on line."

He welcomes the idea of the new assistant and was worried that splitting his time between the two schools meant he was short changing one of them. He would visit the IGA school at least two or three times a week.

"This arrangement could work well for two or three years, but not six."

Minden firehall tap to be turned off

Too many cottagers and non-residents are using the public well near Minden's firehall so council is looking into the possibility of moving the tap to the Newcastle Street well and charging for water.

"It's amazing the amount of water that is going through there," says Reeve Ray Moore.

The plans for the proposed

Newcastle Street tap would include installing a water meter so users would have to pay for the water they take. Moore says a similar system is used by the village of Millbrook which charges 25 cents for 5 gallons of water.

"This will help them pay for water supply."

You're Invited...

to catch the spirit of Christmas at one (or all) of the many Christmas Concerts planned for this season. Read on.

by BRIAN RODNICK
Staff Reporter

'TIS THE SEASON TO BE JOLLY...
When you think of Christmas, what is the first thing you think of? Gifts? Family? Food? How about music?

For many people Christmas just doesn't become a reality until they hear that first Christmas carol on the radio. Of course once this happens, many of us will complain that time has moved too quickly and only yesterday we were swimming at the cottage.

But how many of us really mean this? Is it not just the anxiety of having to do Christmas shopping that is turning us all into Scrooge?

For a moment let's forget about picking up that gift for Uncle Fred, and concentrate on some of the other aspects of the Christmas season — like music.

Christmas is the one time of year when people begin humming the same tunes, only many won't admit it and have to be caught in the act.

For those who enjoy Christmas music and are not afraid to show it, this is the best time of year to be in Haliburton County.

"Christmas music is not only a 'time machine' that can take us back as far as the 12th century and beyond — but it is also a reflection of many cultures and traditions," says music teacher and choirmaster Bill Gliddon.

"Christmas brings a message of tremendous joy to all people of goodwill. What better way to communicate that tremendous joy than through music?"

From now right up until Christmas, the feeling which Mr. Gliddon is describing will be in full force as countless Christmas concerts are held throughout the county.

Of course some of the most popular concerts are the ones presented by the county's school children. "Who is not moved with delight by the sight and sound of children singing the music of Christmas?"

If this describes you, prepare to be awfully busy over the next three weeks:

Friday December 7th: The Victoria Street Students (Grade 2s) will be at the Haliburton Legion to entertain dinner guests. This is sponsored by Home Support Services and gets under way at 11:30 am.

Wednesday December 12th: The Haliburton Highlands Secondary School bands will hold a Christmas Concert in the school's auditorium beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Saturday December 15th: The Lilliput Theatre performs for seniors and children "Dog Gonnit Christmas" at the Hyland Crest Seniors Citizens' Home in Minden at 9:30 a.m.

Friday December 14th: The Gooderham Elementary School will present its Christmas concert at the Gooderham Community Centre at 7 pm.

Tuesday December 18th: The Wilberforce Elementary School will hold its concert at the Lloyd

Watson Centre in Wilberforce at 1:30 p.m., entertaining the seniors club at the same time.

Tuesday December 18th: J. Douglas Hodgson Elementary will hold its concert in the school gym at 7 pm.

Tuesday December 18th: Archie Stouffer Elementary School in Minden will hold an Open House with carol singing, at 7 pm.

Thursday December 20th: The Cardiff Elementary School will hold a Christmas concert at the Cardiff United Church at 7 pm.

Thursday December 20th: The Dorset Elementary School will hold their concert at the school. For more details call 766-2291.

Friday December 21st: The rest of Victoria Street

School students will hold their Christmas program at the Haliburton United Church at 1:30 pm.

The public is invited to attend any of these Christmas programs. However if you can't make it, don't worry there are still many other concerts to attend.

"The music celebrating Christmas has had an extra special 'flavor of joy' throughout the centuries of the Christian era. The greatest music for this holy season began, of course, and still continues within the church," says Mr. Gliddon.

A list of some concerts includes:

Sunday December 16th: Haliburton United Church presents a Christmas service with lessons, carols and choir anthems, 7:30 pm at the church.

Sunday December 16th: St. George's Choir hosts its annual Carol Service at St. George's Anglican Church in Haliburton, 7 pm.

Sunday December 16th: The Lakeside Baptist Church in Haliburton will hold its Christmas Concert. The Eagle Lake Community Church will hold a concert on Tuesday December 18th. Both concerts will begin at 7 pm.

Wednesday December 19th: The HHSS drama club presents, "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever" to be held at St. George's Anglican Church in Haliburton, 7:30 pm.

Monday December 24th, Christmas Eve: St. George's has Choir and Carol singing, followed by Christmas Communion at St. George's Anglican Church in Haliburton, 6:45 pm.

GST?

THIS WEEK YOU ASKED THE GST CONSUMER INFORMATION OFFICE.

Q: I'm thinking of buying a new car in 1991. How will the proposed GST affect prices?

A: The outgoing Federal Sales Tax (FST) is now part of the price of new cars. So, while they will be fully taxed at 7% in 1991, the expected effect of replacing the FST with the GST on the average $22,000 mid-size car is a reduction of around $850.

Q: My son has figured out it will cost $500 in lumber to build a dock at our cottage if he bought it now. How much will that lumber cost with the proposed GST?

A: You can expect to pay about $512 for that same amount of lumber for personal use based solely on the changeover from the FST to the GST.

Q: I know the proposed GST won't apply to city bus fares but I take the commuter train to work. Will I have to pay GST?

A: No. Daily commuter trains are considered a municipal transit service, so fares are exempt from GST.

We're here to answer your questions about how the GST will affect prices. Call us toll-free Monday to Friday 9am-9pm. Ask for your free copy of the "Consumer's Guide to the GST and Prices."

Candygrams are for those you're sweet on

STUDENT LIFE AT HHSS

by: ERIN LYNCH

CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS are quickly veering toward us. It's hard to believe we're almost halfway through the school year. It seems like just last week I was writing about the first days of school. When you're a child, days seem so long; as you get older, years pass very quickly. It scares me to think how fast the years will pass when I'm forty, much less eighty!

The Christmas holidays are only a week and a half away. They will be busy days, I'm sure. Teachers will probably be rushing to complete chapters, loading tests and the odd assignment on our shoulders. As soon as we return from the holidays something terrible will happen . . . EXAMS!

Candy grams went on sale this week. For anyone who doesn't know what a candy gram is, it is a candy cane with a message attached to it. You can buy them and have them sent to people on the last day before Christmas holidays. What better way to tell someone they're loved, how much their friendship is valued, or to apologize for something terrible done or said? They are 25 cents each. Make sure you at least send a couple.

The OAC Christmas assembly will also be happening soon! I haven't heard any details of it yet, but promise to keep you posted. The Christmas dance is next Friday, that is December 14. Make sure you are there. It is usually one of the best dances.

The SAC is selling lovely redmen hats. They're corduroy and say Haliburton Redmen. As Tracey Simms told me "they'd make a great Christmas present for mom or dad." They're only $13.

As you may or may have not noticed there weren't any students smoking down at the train last Friday. The board has temporarily given the old smoking area back until a better location is chosen. I am sure many students who smoke are happy and those of you who drive won't have to worry so much about dodging bodies! For an indepth report tune in next week!

Intended for last week

THERE ARE MANY THINGS our schools need: new books, new equipment, larger budgets, etc. When I asked "If you could add one thing to our school environment what would it be?" the answers ran from realistic to fictitious.

"To recycle more and take it seriously," Sandy Bannon answered. Another student thought this would be a step in the right direction. We do have two garbage cans in the cafeteria, one for cans, the other for bottles. But many students won't take those few extra steps to recycle. Why? Do they not care about the environment? They might be more careful when the earth has rotted away—they will probably be dead anyway!

Many students think that something has to be done about the colours of the school walls and lockers, perhaps repaint them or have student art or large murals. It would make the hallways exciting and updated.

A lot of things were said about the cafeteria. The biggest comment was that we need a larger one. Another student said better food. I myself think healthier food would be an improvement. More salads, fruit, and less fattening food.

Have you noticed that the school is usually too hot or too cold, but never in between! Saskia Smith said simply: "In winter heat, in summer air conditioning."

Not many things were said about students themselves. Kyle Hewitt thinks "there should be a better attitude towards fellow students." In what way, I am not sure.

Dave Carr, when pressed with the question, asked if he could take something away instead: "To take everyone with a double face away."

There were also a few things like a better football field, a larger, newer gym, a swimming pool — things that will never occur, or at least not for a very long time.

Besides asking students I asked some teachers for their input. They are at the school as much as we are, if not more.

"An SAC storage room. There is no place to put things in the school to make it for students," said Mr. Mowat.

"An espresso machine," answered Mr. Wayne Cooper. I don't think you could find that in schools in Europe.

Mrs. Dible thought long and hard then answered "More congeniality."

Mr. Forgrave, our principal, pondered the question, trying to understand its full meaning before answering. "There are so many things I don't know what to say." He thought for a while longer and then came up with: "Renovate the interior of the school and improve the lighting in the halls."

I asked Mr. Wallace and without pausing an instant he answered "Humour" How come this doesn't surprise me?

Next years Rotary exchange students have been chosen. Dustin Davis will be representing Minden rotary Club. His first choice is France. Kelley Heyes is representing Haliburton and her first choice is Australia. She is ecstatic with the idea, ever since the day she found out. Every morning in home form she has had travelguides, books, and pictures of Australia.

THEY FOUND THEM!!

Missing gingerbread men turn up at bakery

by BRIAN RODNICK
Staff Reporter

They couldn't hide forever — the students of Victoria Street School knew that. But where could 70 gingerbread men hide without being noticed? How about a bake shop in Haliburton?

"Hip Hip Hurrah!" was the cheer as the Grade 1 students found their wandering oven-baked friends, who have been on the run since the start of this month, resting nonchalantly on a shelf in Rachel's Home Bakery.

The children's extraordinary find brings to a close one of the greatest treasure hunts Haliburton has ever seen. Who could have guessed what was going to happen when those gingerbread men were placed in the school oven to bake?

The mystery started after the students read a story about a group of runaway gingerbread men. The story made the Grade 1's hungry, so teachers Chris Lynd, Toos Reid and Wilma Powers helped the kids bake up a batch of their own.

The gingerbread came out of the oven too hot eat that day and the kids had to wait until the next day to devour their creations. But sometime in the night, those gingerbread men decided they were not going to end up as a mid-day snack, and made a break for it. You can imagine the children's surprise when they discovered their gingerbread men had gone AWOL, leaving nothing but a few crumbs and note which read, "Look, look as hard as you can. You can't find us, we're the gingerbread men!"

The hunt was on. Aided by a few postcards from some helpful residents — a man feeding geese in the park and a hunter who saw at least 40 of the gingerbread men staring at a moose — the students followed clues, which they hoped would lead them to the renegade cookies.

The clues took them everywhere — the fire hall, the seniors apartments, the Bank of Montreal, ValuMart, even The Echo office — but not a single crumb could be found.

Days turned into weeks, and finally last Wednesday, after searching around Haliburton Highlands Secondary School, the students stopped off at Rachel's Bakery on their way back to class. They wanted to make sure they covered all bases.

"I smell donuts," said one youngster. "I smell gingerbread men" answered his friend as they walked through the front door. Apparently several of the young Sherlocks already suspected the gingerbread men would be hiding at the shop.

"YAAAAHHHH" they shouted as the trays of gingerbread men were lifted off their hiding places on the shelves.

With the mystery now solved, the next task was trying to match each of the treats to their rightful creator. This took some time, but the kids were more than patient to wait as they basked in the glory of their big find.

Once each of the untrustworthy gingerbread men had found its owner, the kids loaded back on to their bus with a look of triumph on their faces.

As for the 70 runaway gingerbread men, their days were numbered the minute they made their great escape from the oven. In fact, by the look on the children's faces, it would be surprising if any of those gingerbread men are still around to read this.

FAMILY FEUDING...

The Tomorrow Box probes modern family life

by BRIAN RODNICK

Staff Reporter

THE WORLD HAS SURVIVED a number of great battles, except one — the battle between the sexes. It is a war which has been raging for centuries with no signs of a truce in sight. This is the theme of The Tomorrow Box, now being presented by the Highlands Little Theatre in Haliburton.

Written by award-winning playwright Anne Chislett, Box is not only an exploration of this theme, but of the differences which exist between generations and how these differences affect the battle.

Set in a trailer park outside a small village in rural Ontario, Box tells the story of the Coopers, a large farm family. The oldest son is Joe (Douglas Brohm), who has left his university job and returned to the family farm, bringing with him his city-bred wife Alice (Kim Coulter). The young Mrs. Cooper is studying to be a lawyer.

The couple has settled into a cramped trailer in a park near the family farm. But this is only supposed to be a temporary arrangement until Joe's father, Jack (Lloyd Johnson), retires to Florida and sells the farm to the young couple.

Jack's plan is perfect except for one thing: he has neglected to tell his wife Maureen (Irene Lubowitz) about the move. He wants news of their migration south into a fully-furnished condominium to be a "surprise".

An even bigger surprise awaits Jack when Maureen finds out about his retirement plans. Adding even more controversy to this volatile situation is the appearance of Alice's older sister, Lisa (Shelley van Nood), a sharp-tongued activist lawyer from Toronto.

With Lisa's arrival, the battle soon heats up and the men are paired off against the women, who vow not to let Maureen be bullied into moving south, leaving behind her personal belongings.

Part of Jack's moving plans includes auctioning off Maureen's furniture and her Royal Dalton figurines. Having strangers buy her things in a "tomorrow box" (a box of knick knacks whose contents are revealed to their purchaser only when they get it home from the auction) terrifies her.

As Maureen, Lubowitz must cover a wide range of emotions as her character matures. In the beginning she is the epitome of meddling mother-in-law. She breezes into the couple's trailer carrying jars of preserves and two gaudy needle point pictures that she insists Alice hang on the wall — "There was no more room on my wall. I thought of you".

The women are not only from two different worlds but seem generations apart. When Alice tries to explain to Maureen why she has been studying law for seven years, the elder Mrs. Cooper can't grasp the concept: "Seven years? I guess slow and steady wins the race".

As the play progresses and Maureen grows more confident and Alice more tolerant of her new life in the country, the women realize that regardless of their differences, they share one thing. Each has a husband who expects to be waited on hand and foot and to make all the decisions.

A bond develops, and grows stronger when Lisa enters the picture offering her objection and legal advice to Maureen, preventing Jack from "taking you off to Florida like your a cat".

Box offers some generally funny bits, most notably the verbal exchanges between the crusty Jack Cooper and Lisa; and the elder Mrs. Cooper's first experience with alcohol.

But beneath the lighter moments there is a strong sense of drama as we watch the possible disintegration of this once close-knit family.

While the actors do a fine job of bringing their characters to life, they have been aided by the direction of Glen Carter. He allows the actors to use every part of the stage, not keeping them cramped inside the trailer.

The set itself is terrific and consists of a trailer which appears to have been sliced neatly in half. An extra touch is the life-like trees and tacky pink flamingo, which sits outside the trailer giving it a more realistic flavor.

The designers and creators of this set should be wholly commended.

The same thanks should be given to The Tomorrow Box's author, Anne Chislett, for providing a contemporary and witty look at the relationship between men and women.

The Tomorrow Box runs at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School auditorium until Saturday. Show time is 8 pm. For more information and reserved tickets, call Anne Creelman at 457-2025. It is being sponsored by Emmerson Lumber.

Volunteers get a big THANK YOU from Hyland Crest friends

by MARTHA PERKINS

Editor

HYLAND CREST gave a big thanks to the men and women who usually expect only a smile as their reward.

"Thank you from the bottom of our hearts," said Administrator Rheta Jones to the dozens of people at the nursing home's Volunteer Appreciation Tea on Wednesday afternoon.

Acknowledging a dedicated staff, board of management and the volunteers, Mrs. Jones said "Only by working together can we improve the quality of life and care at Hyland Crest."

The volunteers are more than willing to fulfill their part of the bargain.

"We give them pleasure but they don't realize how much pleasure they give us," Peggie Pettinger says as she nibbles on the delectables from the buffet table. "I feel the satisfaction of doing something good for someone else."

"I didn't know anything about Hyland Crest until my mother, Nancy Carefoot, was admitted," Mary Guillemain adds. Once she started visiting, "I could see the need of family, friends and visitors — a touch, a care."

Now Mrs. Guillemain's at the home at least three times a week (the other days she spends helping others.) And not only her mother is the beneficiary of her time and attentions. "The feelings I have towards the residents are the like those to my own mother. If I can relate to them, then I feel good about that."

The women at the table all have words of praise for Doris Robertson, the home's activities director and co-ordinator of volunteers. "She's the mother of them all," says Ruth Samarillo. "I've never seen her cross — she always has that wonderful giggle," says Mrs. Guillemain. "You can't say enough about Doris."

Yet when it was Mrs. Robertson's turn to speak, she told the volunteers "We could never say enough about the services you people give from the heart."

"I'm not sure I see myself as a volunteer," said Evelyn Coleman, the next speaker. Guided by her Christian beliefs, "if you see a need and realize you have the ability to meet those needs, that constitutes a call from God."

So instead of being a volunteer, "I have been volunteered and I can't say no."

Mrs. Coleman has been volunteered for 54 years and it was in those early years she learned many important lessons on how to do it properly. At 17, she became a Sunday School teacher, responsible for eight young, rambunctious girls. They taught her "you don't volunteer unless you know what you're going to do."

Then she "graduated" to the kindergarten class. Among the lessons she learned there were commitment, and being as dedicated to volunteer jobs as you would be to jobs you were paid for. "God speaks to us through many people and it's very important that we listen," Mrs. Coleman said as she recounted her humorous and touching stories. Listening is a fine art and she told her fellow volunteers "we don't have to do all the talking when we're visiting."

As well, whenever you enter Hyland Crest, you are not visiting an institution, but rather the home of each and every person who lives there. That home and its residents must therefore be treated with respect — and friendliness.

Mrs. Coleman then shared some of a volunteer's fears: Is there anything I can do to help? Will I say the right things? What makes me think I can improve someone's quality of life?

One day she was called upon to visit a friend's dying mother. Her stomach full of knots, she approached the bed, not knowing what to do or say. "I needn't have worried," she smiled at the memory. "I took her hand and we were one."

The woman never took her eyes off Mrs. Coleman, who felt her soul was being exposed by the penetrating glance. "Faith needs to be strong in the God who loves us," the volunteer said of a lesson which she already knew but which was being strengthened. "I grew in those few moments; she died the next day."

More recently she was talking with Hyland Crest resident Isabella Eastman. Mrs. Eastman was remembering the sermon Mrs. Coleman once gave, and the time Mrs. Coleman opened up her home to the residents. Those occasions, Mrs. Coleman realized, were in 1980 and 1979. That the events stayed so long in Mrs. Eastman's memory is a testament to the important role volunteers play.

In closing, Mrs. Coleman turned to the residents and said "Our thanks for touching up with us. You've touched our lives and in touching our lives, you've enriched us."

"I think volunteers give themselves to helping others," said 101-year-old resident Mary Oliver, who herself volunteers on the Residents' Council. She made everyone laugh by saying "I can't just speak extemporaneously — I have to read those big words."

On behalf of everyone at Hyland Crest, Mrs. Oliver thanked the volunteers for giving their time and care. "How miserable life would be if you didn't come." On every occasion there are volunteers, and they also help with friendly visiting, reading to those who cannot see, taking them on shopping trips, raising money for the new wheelchair bus, which gives the residents the freedom to explore the countryside, and organizing the purchase of a new stove so residents can renew their baking talents.

"I think they're like a bunch of nice flowers," she concluded.

Also taking part in the ceremonies were Minden Deputy-reeve Bern Berry, who sits on the board of management, Gary McKnight, county administrator and interim Hyland Crest administrator before Mrs. Jones arrived, and Gord Kidd, who sang two songs on friendship, sometimes accompanied by Mrs. Jones.

"I'm grateful to see Hyland Crest is doing something to recognize volunteers," Mr. McKnight said of the first of what is hoped to be an annual event.

Volunteering is about friendship. After the speeches, Gord Kidd sang a few songs about the special role friends play. Helping him with an occasional Oo-aah was administrator Rheta Jones.

Service Above Self

The Minden Rotary Club says Allan Stott is a man who puts these words into action. To acknowledge his contributions, the club has named him Citizen of the Year.

by MARTHA PERKINS

Editor

FOR YEARS IT COULD BE SAID that Allan Stott moved in mysterious ways. At many events in Lutterworth and Minden, he always seemed to be there; sometimes as a dignitary, sometimes as a participant, and sometimes as part of the audience. His interests were varied, but his smile remained constant.

As of last week, however, the Minden Rotary Club has taken all the mystery out of Mr. Stott's value in the community: by naming him Citizen of the Year, the service club has let it be known far and wide just how much Mr. Stott has contributed to the quality of life in Haliburton County.

"It's a great honour," says Mr. Stott with one of those smiles which impishly lights up his whole face and belies his 84 years. The plaque reads "Service Above Self", the Rotary motto and Mr. Stott's lifelong creed. He didn't need to memorize those three words; they're part of his being.

With his wife of 56-years, Helen (whom he calls Joe), Mr. Stott now lives at Staanworth Terrace. Not surprisingly, he's vice-president of the apartment's board of directors, making sure the gym is kept in tip top shape for his twice weekly workouts. He's also seen at many of the apartment's bridge parties, and there's a bridge table set up permanently in their living room.

If you're not a bridge player, you might have met him at the Minden Seniors Curling Club, where he was president for two years. Recently he's had to stop curling because of poor circulation in his legs.

"It's too cold," he says of his reason for giving up a sport he so enjoyed.

"Watch it dear," cautions his wife, in the teasing way wives have.

"I said too cold, not too old," he rejoins. Eighty-four's not enough of a milestone yet.

Another plaque on his wall acknowledges the 10 years he spent on Lutterworth council. He was smart enough not to run in the last election, he says. "That way I didn't get defeated. So they gave me a nice plaque and took me out to dinner. Margaret Thatcher should have done that." Will she get a so-long-and-thanks-for-the-memories dinner?

Perhaps you've bumped into him at a Lions Club event or bought a raffle ticket from him.

Need a wheelchair? The Minden Branch of the Red Cross Society has one for you, thanks to his volunteer efforts on its board. And he's the one who helped bring the Homemakers service to the county.

Or maybe you've seen him at the Remembrance Day services, bowing his head in honour of those who died during the years of war he spends most of the year trying to forget.

"I'm the kind of guy who can't sit back, I've got to get involved," he explains.

"Instead of sitting back and complaining about what they're doing, he joins in and tells them what to do," adds his wife.

"There's a part for everyone to volunteer in — you must," he says. "If the community's been good for you, why wouldn't you do something good for the community?"

Like many people with his same type of drive and spirit, Mr. Stott traces the roots of his behaviour back to his parents and his faith.

He was born in Oakville in 1906, when what is now part of the "Greater Toronto Area" was a small but energetic port town. Of his four brothers and sisters, only Mr. Stott and his sister in Montreal are still alive.

Both parents were British to the core, and the two oldest boys were born in England.

"My father was an army man, very strict yet humorous. We didn't walk anywhere, we marched. 'Pick it up on the right,' he'd call if one of us lagged behind. 'Left, right, left right. . . .'"

"Thank goodness you didn't do that, dear," Helen Stott says to the nod and smile of agreement from her husband.)

In civilian life, Mr. Stott Senior was an insurance and real estate agent. When the T. Eaton Co. wanted to set up a new store, they'd hire Mr. Stott to buy the land to keep their intentions quiet. He performed similar tasks for other large companies who didn't want their expansion plans known immediately.

His wife was very active in the Anglican church, as organist and dedicated member of the A.C.W. "She was a gentle woman, well-educated and a concert pianist. We always had music and singing. We made our own fun — ukeleles, gazoos, Jew's harps and sing songs."

"We were brought up to be honest and fight for the right, to do what's right and follow the commandments. We fought, but Lord help anyone from outside who came between family."

When it was time for Allan Stott to set out and make his own fortune (the Depression was something never to be imagined), he boarded a train to Kapuskasing, where he got a job with the Spruce Falls Power and Paper Co. At that time it was owned by the New York Times as a source of newsprint.

In remembering his four years in the north, Mr. Stott says "Those were tea-totalling days. There were three drugstores in town and right under the nose of the RCMP, they were selling alcohol for 50 cents an ounce." For medicinal purposes, of course. (His brother Jack became a doctor. "It was amazing the number of people who lined up at his house on weekends to get booze.")

Back in Oakville, Mr. Stott got talking to a good friend, Ricky McFadden, who lived in Orillia. "If you come up to the Collegiate dance this weekend," young Ricky said, "the tickets are only $2.50 and I'll give it to you for $2." He'd also arrange a date for the young bachelor.

The blind date was with Ricky's girlfriend's sister, Helen Smith. "We had a good time that night and I didn't see her for two or three years after that."

Mr. Stott and Helen Smith would get together, once again thanks to Ricky McFadden. He was going over to the Smiths', who were now living in Toronto. Remember the Smith girl he danced the night away with in Orillia? Mr. Stott decided to go along for the visit.

The young couple did not wait a few years before seeing each other again and began courting. How did people court in the 1920s and '30s, he's asked. "Very carefully," is the mirthful reply.

In 1934, Mr. Stott went to Mr. Smith to ask permission to marry his favourite daughter. With Mr. Smith's approval, Mr. Stott had the leverage needed to guarantee a positive reply. He and Helen were married in 1934.

When asked why he calls his wife Joe instead of Helen, Mr. Stott blames his sister. "She was the wild one for dreaming up names." Only with a little bit of prodding will Mr. Stott reveal "she called me Drib and she still calls me that — and I call her Hib."

As to Joe, he notes "even the kids before they

'Call and cry of country'

said mommy called her Joe."

"If he ever called me Helen I don't know what I've done," she smiles as she gets up to pour the coffee.

Nineteen-thirty-four, in the midst of the Depression, was not the best time to marry. Their situation took a turn for the worse a short time later. "Like everyone else, I got laid off."

"I worked in the bank and in those days, when you're married, your out," adds Mrs. Stott. Today, many people are too proud to take menial jobs when their career is waylaid. Not so with Mr. Stott in the Thirties. "I'd be too proud to go on welfare — but I wouldn't be too proud to work at something, anything."

And anything he'd do. "It's amazing what you can do when you have to and you use your imagination. You did whatever you could to make a buck — polish cars, work in a restaurant, become a short-order cook. But we got by. We walked everywhere because we couldn't afford the streetcar fare."

However, given his background, it was of little surprise that when World War II began in 1939, Mr. Stott was one of the first to join up. He didn't tell his wife of his intentions, but "I knew he would," she says.

"It was the old call and cry to save the country — I was brought up on that," he says. He enlisted as a private and in two months was promoted to sergeant, eventually becoming lieutenant. "I had a big voice and probably my father's discipline. I took naturally to the army because I had been brought up in those terms and knew what to expect." At 33, he was considered the old man of the Toronto Scottish Regiment.

A short while later, he was sent to England, just in time for the Battle of Britain. "We lay out there with our binoculars and watched the dogfights."

"But the bitter part, the awful part, was the killing and bombing of innocent women and children. That I'll never get out of my head, that stupidity."

Veterans rarely like to recall the war, and Mr. Stott's words a few minutes later indicate just why: "You'll still wake up and see those arms and legs going down the gutter but you get into your own life and tend to forget and want to forget. It's all you women and wives who have that great ability to help us forget, which is good."

When in England, Mr. Stott often stayed with his brother, who was a vicar in London. Letters home were always censored — usually with a black marker but sometimes the words were cut out, which was maddening when both sides of the paper were written on.

Later, it was Mr. Stott's job to censor the other soldiers' letters. He's asked what the letters told him about the men's reaction to war. "Those who went over early, we were too long in training and sitting in England. Their reaction was spend money, look good, have fun. Don't forget they were boys."

"I don't think anyone wants to shoot and get shot at, but it's the old saying of kill or be killed. We hope to God there's not another war. Peace, that's what we should be preaching — but not peace at all costs."

War was also hard on the women back home. When Mrs. Stott said goodbye to her husband, she didn't know when he would be returning — or if he was to be one of the lucky ones to return. This was not a business trip he was leaving for, it was war.

"I had a job, which helped," she said of how she coped. Friends were understanding, and many were in the same situation. "The only thing I didn't like was going into a store and they wouldn't have something. The clerk would say 'Don't you know there's a war on?' I'd say 'Yes, I know. My husband's in it.'"

"I never spoke about Allan coming home. I thought about it, but I never said it out loud" in case it brought bad luck. "I'm not a worrier."

"She has a jolly good disposition," her husband beams. It was a joyful reunion — four years after he left — when he was finally back in Canada. Laughing, he remembers "I was dirty. The first thing I wanted was a bath."

With the arrival of son Peter in 1945 and David in 1947, a happy family life could be enjoyed. When he first returned home, Mrs. Stott was living in the YWCA in Hamilton, where men, husbands or not, were not allowed. One of his main priorities, therefore, was finding them a home. This would be in Dundas, where Mr. Stott became the manager of personnel for John Bertram and Sons Ltd., makers of heavy machinery and employer to 1,000 people. They'd live there until their retirement to Lutterworth, then Minden.

Although they never owned a cottage here, they used to come up with some friends who cottaged on Kashagawigamog. Then, in 1974, "a friend said she was moving up here so we came to see her new place and we bought a house." Mrs. Stott has breathing problems and the clean air is like a tonic.

It was only natural for Mr. Stott to transfer his interests north as well. In Dundas, he had been president of the Red Cross branch, a bond which began in World War II. "They were good to us overseas. They had coffee and doughnuts set up and every branch throughout Canada was rolling bandages like mad and knitting like mad and giving of their time."

Once in Dundas, "someone asked me to go knocking on doors to raise money for the Red Cross" and he was hooked — for more than 40 years. Along with the honour of being named Citizen of the Year is a $200 cheque, which he is donating to the Minden Red Cross.

In Minden, they soon signed up with the Curling Club; games were held in the steel Quonset hut now used for lawn bowling. Because they were worried the roof could not withstand the weight of snow, Mr. Stott was instrumental in helping raise money for the new home.

"When I became 80," he smiles, "one of the rules was you didn't have to pay fees and I liked that very much. Our club turned out to be the largest for seniors in Ontario. Isn't that something?"

"Well no," Mrs. Stott quips, "it's all seniors up here."

It was the fellowship which kept them involved for as long as they were able (he was president of the club for two years.)

Of his years on Lutterworth council (he was also on Dundas council), Mr. Stott, again with that impish shrug of his shoulders, says "It was fun and I wouldn't have missed it for anything. I was retired so I could give my time to it properly. We didn't always see eye to eye but we came out of it as friends."

Starting up a fire department was one of the burning issues for the small municipality. Then, as now, there were dumps and the controlling of dumps, and disputes over roads. One of his clearest — not quite fondest — memories is of the night a thief broke into the municipal garage, stole a welding torch, broke into the municipal office through the upstairs window, and torched off the door to the walk-in safe. "There was more money in a desk drawer," Mr. Stott laughs. "When we had to have the door replaced we needed six men to carry it."

As a very youthful and energetic 84-year-old —

he bicycles four miles a day on a stationary bike — Mr. Stott is asked what advice he'd give on growing old.

"You have to keep your feet in somewhere and help where you can. Get embroiled, get mixed up, go out and see what you can do to help your community."

"Do you want him to die within a year," his wife asks of what would happen if he didn't keep himself busy.

"It's people, people, I love people. Thank God for that," Mr. Stott says.

"I just don't believe the energy this man has," Rotary president Brian Adamson, who was recruited into the Red Cross by Mr. Stott, says in a telephone interview later. "He's just always there for people, and always a guiding figure. He's just one of those men who's very active in the community."

Back at Staanworth Terrace, Mr. Stott looks at the Citizen of the Year plaque one more time. "Bless them," he says of the Rotary members. "It's lovely but it's embarrassing."

It's about time Mr. Stott got accustomed to the community doing what it can for him.

IN A WORLD OF RISING ENERGY PRICES

HERE'S HOW YOU CAN MAKE EVERY DROP COUNT.

- Don't exceed speed limits. Reducing your speed from 120 km/h to 100 km/h will save 23% in gasoline costs.
- Cutting back from 100 km/h to 80 km/h will save about 18%.

YOUR HOME

A major amount of our annual energy use goes to heat our homes. Here are a few tips on how to take some of the heat off your home energy costs.

HEATING

- If you lower your thermostat from 22°C to 20°C during the day and to 17°C at night you could save up to 15% on your heating bills.
- Oil furnaces should be tuned up once a year.
- Clean or replace furnace filters regularly.
- Seal your furnace ductwork with duct tape and insulate hot air ducts passing through unheated spaces.

WEATHERPROOFING

- Weatherstrip windows and doors.
- Caulk windows and door frames.
- Insulate attic, walls and basement to recommended levels. Install a vapour barrier where necessary.

YOUR WORLD

Just about every piece of plastic that you use is derived from a fossil fuel. The production of paper, metal and glass uses enormous amounts of energy. So the 3R's of environmental protection are vital as well. Reduce your energy needs whenever you can. Reuse bags, containers, bottles and wrappings when possible. Your community probably has local recycling programs in which you can get involved.

WE CAN HELP

Not only will you be reducing your costs, you'll be helping the environment by cutting back on greenhouse gases and the use of fossil fuels.

Here are just a few tips.

YOUR CAR

Here's how to drive down costs.

Elderly deserve respect — not abuse

by MARTHA PERKINS
Editor

OLD AGE IS OFTEN IDEALIZED as a peaceful, contented stage of life. And so it is for some. But for those who must rely on others, the "golden years" may be tarnished by abuse.

"For every 50 senior citizens you know, one of them is probably being abused," Public Health Nurse Anne McCracken told staff members at Hyland Crest on Thursday. "Elder abuse is defined as any harm to an older person caused by family members, friends, neighbours, or anyone whom the victim depends on for basic needs."

"Nobody likes to be abused in any way, shape or form."

So it's not the muggers on pension days, or the widow who purposefully stops eating who make up the statistics. It could be the son who forces his mother to sign over all cheques to him. Or the daughter who leaves her father alone in the house, unable to care for himself. Or the caregiver who makes a senior citizen spend the day in soiled clothing.

Asked to Hyland Crest by the director of nursing, Mrs. McCracken stressed she was not there because there were any suspicions of wrongdoing among staff. As primary caregivers, they are likely to be among the first to be aware of abuse. Past abuse may affect residents' abilities to communicate openly at the nursing home, and understanding how abuse occurs will be the key to understanding the person.

There are four types of abuse. Physical abuse includes assault, sexual abuse and forceable confinement, all punishable under the Criminal Code. The latter is "when you're forced to stay in a room or you can't leave. You don't have the freedom normally expected in that environment."

Signs of physical abuse include bruises, scrapes, swelling, grip marks. Does this mean every bruise is an indication of abuse? Definitely not, Mrs. McCracken said. "Not just one little thing will say a person is abused. You have to put the whole picture together and these are just some of the things you look for."

The second type of abuse is financial — theft, fraud, forgery. This can lead to some of the trickiest situations of all. Suppose a family member wants a staff member to witness a resident signing over a cheque. This is common, and often not something to worry about. But does the resident seem reticent, or fully aware of what he or she is doing?

"Check with the policies of the institution for which you're working," Mrs. McCracken advised. "Be careful about what you witness because you're accountable for your actions."

Suspicious of financial abuse occur when the resident consistently has no money, or, if at home, lives in poor conditions. The house may go up for sale, even though the person has often said he or she doesn't want to move. Maybe there's a sudden change in power of attorney, or belongings start to disappear. If theft is occurring, it's usually by a family member, which makes it hard to detect and even harder to deal with.

Neglect, the third type of abuse, is abandonment or lack of provision of food, healthcare or any other basic need. Signs of its presence include malnourishment, a long-term lack of aids such as glasses, skin breakdown, soiled clothing or linen, the person being under or over medicated, depression, and being left alone when it's not appropriate.

"I almost think under-medication is worse," Mrs. McCracken said. "If someone's in a lot of pain and you won't give them anything, that's cruel."

Mental cruelty is the type of abuse practically everyone has had exposure to. Whether it's children in the school yard taunting one another or a son threatening his father he'll "put him in a home" if he doesn't sign over cheques, words can be used to hurt people.

"You know how it feels," says Mrs. McCracken. "Well, elderly people don't like it either. . . Unless you're proved incompetent, you certainly have the right to make your own decisions."

When an elderly person shows signs of withdrawal, fear, low self-esteem, passiveness or regression, mental cruelty may have occurred.

"If they say nothing (about what's happening to them), that could mean they were never allowed to. Sometimes you just wish someone would speak up for their own rights."

As well, someone who's been consistently told they can't do something, no matter how old or young they are, will begin to believe it. This may make things difficult for the caregiver, and there may be resistance to change at first, but it's well worth the effort to rebuild self-esteem and a sense of independence.

Who is at high risk? Women older than 75 and the frail are particularly vulnerable, especially if they live with the abuser.

"A lot of abuse would never happen if there was someone else there," Mrs. McCracken said. Many elder abuse victims won't report the abuse. "They're ashamed and blame themselves."

But people should be careful about laying blame, the public health nurse said. "Probably the person who needs our help more is the person doing the abuse. We have to be sympathetic and realize there are reasons."

Stress in the life of the caregiver is usually the biggest reason — a busy lifestyle, medical problem, lack of money, job worries, alcohol or drug abuse, family conflicts, and lack of space. "Are you going to condemn the person?"

Group gets ideas for tracing past

by June Partridge

On Thursday Nov. 29, the new Haliburton Highlands Genealogical Group met at Boppa's Restaurant in Minden. Nineteen people gathered with one coming from as far away as Toronto. The guest speaker was Grant Barrick from the family history centre in Bracebridge. This is a branch of the Family History Library of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Mr. Barrick said there are currently 125 organizations working in 122 countries gathering information on birth, death, marriage records, wills, census and court records. This information has previously been held in Church records and records of a country's official record keeping offices. When genealogists try to gather this information it is often very difficult to track down the right office with the right information to fill in the missing blank in your family tree.

There are now 145

million names recorded on the microfiche of the library. This is the largest holding in the world of genealogical information. Mr. Barrick showed a video which described the holdings of the library and how to gain access to these records. Research is based on five basic questions.

1. What do I know about my family?
2. What do I want to learn about my family?
3. What records are available?
4. How do I obtain a record?
5. What do I do next?

Mr. Barrick explained the process of asking these questions and how to record information in a way that would not duplicate work done by others. He encouraged his audience to create a four-generation chart and to register names in the Family Registry. This registry is released on fiche every six months. The Bracebridge Library soon will have a computer which will do a family name, family links search for the genealogist. This will be updated every two weeks.

The librarians who help you follow your clues are all volunteers.

Mr. Barrick left samples of types of records and a book which is a guide to Research.

The local group received a report from Cec Rowe, Cemetery Coordinator. Four cemeteries have been recorded by members of the group this past summer. These were Minden, Pioneer, at Buttermilk Falls and the Mason grave in the same area and Maple Lake/Stanhope Cemetery. These records go to The Ontario Genealogical Society via the Kawartha Branch with a copy to be held in our own branch for local researchers.

Members were encouraged to hand in a pedigree chart to coordinator B. Mugridge who will make up an index of names being researched in order for all members and interested genealogists to peruse in hopes that they may find a link to someone else researching the same name or area. Lists of books used for research and held by our members are being gathered and circulated in the group with the hope that we can share our resource material.

Boppa's Restaurant provided coffee and the space for the meeting, staff staying until after 10 p.m. to accommodate our group. Thank you very much! Our next meeting will be Thurs. March 21, 1991. We hope that by then we will have some design logos to see and evaluate. If you have any ideas or wish to join us our Box number is 567, Minden Ontario, or contact the co-chairpersons, Carol Miles or June Beene, 286-1752 or 286-1774.

WILBERFORCE NEWS

by: WINNIE SCHOFIELD

It takes many people and a tremendous amount of work to produce an event as popular as the annual Wildlife Dinner. Once again the team work of members of the Legion and of the Ladies Auxiliary resulted in great success. The Legion Hall was filled to overflowing on Dec. 1st. Bus loads of people arrived from Apsley and Fenelon Falls and joining in were folks from Oshawa, Whitby, Parry Sound etc. With Chef Peter Ritzie in charge, diners had a variety of dishes to choose from. These included Moose meat, venison, duck, roast pork, roast beef, white fish, salmon and pike. Very much appreciated were sausages provided by Pete Morrow. Some two hundred people were served and leftovers were scarce. As in previous years this was a very happy occasion with gratifying results.

A very fine poster, entered in the Legion sponsored poster competition, was contributed by Daniel Pothaar of the Christian Education School in Harcourt. This has been sent to Howard Cyubliski of Keene for further consideration.

Santa Claus sends word that he is anxious to meet all his friends and will be at the Wilberforce Firehall on Dec. 8th at 1 p.m. There will be free skating at the Arena Later.

Appreciation night was held at the Lloyd Watson Centre on Dec. 1st, when Monmouth Township held a Christmas party for members of the Recreation Committee and those of the Fire Department. A dinner and a dance followed.

A twenty-fifth wedding anniversary party was held on Nov. 24th for Roberta and Max Walsh. Family members managed to keep the event a surprise for the couple until the big day arrived. Friends met at the Lloyd Watson Centre and the guest book registered 103 names of well-wishers. On hand for the celebration was Rita Bidgood, one-time Monmouth resident and mother of Roberta. Rita came from Peterborough to join in this happy time.

Neighbours and friends were sorry to hear of the passing of Wilberforce resident Shirley Hughes who died of a heart attack on Tues. Nov. 27th at Haliburton. Sympathy is extended to members of the family. Mrs. Hughes was buried at Ingoldsby.

On Dec. 18th children from the Wilberforce school will entertain Monmouth Senior Citizens at the Lloyd Watson Centre. Santa Claus will arrive. This is always a joyful occasion and mothers with pre schoolers are invited to attend.

Puppets promise fun for holidays

COUNTY LIBRARY NEWS

by: JOEL LEVIS

ONCE AGAIN this Christmas, the Hyland Crest Senior Citizens' Home Auditorium will ring with laughter as both residents and children enjoy life in Crumble's Toy Store.

There is trouble in Toyland. Frisbee, the lovable watchdog is too shy and bashful to scare away intruders and the future looks bleak for those that might want presents for Christmas. It is only with the help of Martha Mop-Up, his friend and cleaning lady, that he discovers his true potential and maybe (or maybe not) saves Christmas.

Lilliput Theatre tells the tale with songs, puppets and lots of audience participation.

But even if Frisbee isn't successful, his close personal friend Santa Claus will be on hand to help everyone present have a good Christmas.

Christmas may not come for a few weeks but Santa, his ELF, Frisbee and the Lilliput Theatre will all be at Hyland Crest on Saturday, December 15, 1990 at 9:30 a.m. We hope to see YOU there!

This Annual Christmas event is generously supported by the Rotary Club of Minden, the Minden Branch of the Haliburton County Public Library and Hyland Senior Citizen's Home.

Merry Christmas from everyone at the Haliburton County Public Library!

Postal service defended

lifeline to the rest of the country and the hub of all who live in and around Dorset and pick up there.

The powers that be in the Post Office do weird and wonderful things. For instance; when one mails a letter in the local P.O., whether it is addressed to Baysville, Bracebridge, Toronto or Winnipeg, it is bundled up and sent to Newmarket, where it is sorted and then sent to wherever it is addressed to. This is not only the case in Dorset, but in Dwight, Bracebridge and I would assume any other northern P.O. This must be a cause for delay and doesn't make sense to me. Maybe I'm dense. I hope that I am not sued for this diatribe.

The Bracebridge P.O. tells me that the mail doesn't go to Newmarket for sorting but for transfer. So?

H.H. If you are using walnuts and they have a slightly strong smell, pour boiling water over them and leave for 5 or 10 minutes.

White Gift Service is a way to help others

CARNARVON NEWS

by: ANN
McKAY

Congratulations to Francis and Merle Thomas on their fiftieth wedding anniversary on Dec. fourth. Friends and family helped them to celebrate at a dance in the Stanhope Firehall on Saturday evening, Nov. 30th. Many out of town relatives were there and people from all parts of the country. Best wishes from the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kleinschmitt were visitors in Kitchener last week.

Home for the weekend from St. Catharines were Mr. and Mrs. Greg Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Garth Windsor were in Brampton for the weekend, where they joined family in a celebration of Mrs. George Cowan's eightieth birthday. Congratulations from all of us, Myrtle.

I received a card from Mrs. Muriel Brown who wishes a Happy Holiday to friends and former pupils. Her address is Tranquility Place, P.O. Box 3000, Power Line Road, Brantford, Ont. N3J 6G5.

A white Gift Service will be held during regular service at Zion United on Dec.

16th, 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. and the Children's Concert. This year many more families are in need. Please give generously. Church will be at the usual time of 9:00 a.m.

Happy birthday to Scott Carpenter who was twelve years old Dec. 3. Best wishes also to Hazel Gregory who celebrates on the 7th.

It seems to me someone is going into Peterborough for Medical help every day. Would it be possible to phone in or write to the Echo, and have a list published, so we may double up? It would mean a gas saving and be easier on the environment. What do the Echo people think of this service to the community? Going for eye treatment this week were Francis Thomas and Jack Gregory, and myself to the Heart specialist.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Harrison spent the weekend in Toronto with their daughter Wanita.

All ladies are invited by the U.C.W. to its annual "Christmas in Carnarvon" an evening of warmth, fellowship and Christmas Music to be held in the C.E. Building on Wednesday Dec. 5th at 7:30.

Bob Cowan has been moved from hospital in Peterborough to Minden Hospital so do drop in and spend a few minutes with him.

Editor's Note: The Echo would be pleased to print a list of who's going to Peterborough. However, we would not be able to organize it. If someone takes on that task, we'll be more than happy to publish the weekly results.

Every little bit helps. Montreal Trust executive Ron Bond hands Earl Cooper a $500 cheque for the 4C's food drive after the company's four day conference at PineStone on Monday. It was their way of showing thanks to the County for having them. Drummer Gordon Kennedy looks on.

Health Cards must be used at appointments

Some time ago, you were asked by the Ministry of Health for Ontario to complete an application to receive a personalized OHIP card.

Many residents of Ontario have now received their cards, while others are still waiting. Due to the unexpected backlog and many errors which have been found in applications already submitted, the effective date to use the card has been extended to July 1991.

If you still have not completed an application it is very important that you do so, as you will be asked for the new identification when visiting your doctor or any other medical facility.

Seniors feast, shop and get in the festive spirit

KINMOUNT & AREA NEWS

by: MILLIE MOSS

Norland U.C.W. met on Tuesday, November 20 at 1:30 p.m. Present were: Joyce Bartley, Vera Brown, Elizabeth Fryer, Ella Giffin, Hazel Gostlin, Violet Spring, Marion Pearson, Gladys Marquardt and Marilyn Wille. The theme was "Peace". The Treasurer's report was given and letters of thanks were read for donations received. Benediction was sung and tea and cookies were served.

Tuesday morning, November 27 in a drizzling rain, a busload of Seniors set out from Norland and spent the whole day shopping at the Newmarket Mall. I'm told it was a lovely day.

Adrian and Marjorie Lee wish to thank their many friends, neighbours and family who helped celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary on Saturday, November 17 and for all the beautiful cards and gifts. They were really appreciated. Approximately seventy well wishers showed up at the Coboconk Legion Hall in the afternoon and over two hundred arrived at the hall that evening to enjoy the anniversary dance.

A number of Norland Seniors enjoyed the Christmas dinner with the Coboconk Seniors at the Coboconk Legion Hall on Wednesday evening, November 28.

Congratulations to Win and Bill Wilson of RRI Kinmount, who recently became great-grandparents with the premature birth of a wee girl, (three pounds 12 ounces), at Ajax General Hospital. She will be known as Stephanie Elizabeth and was born to happy first-time parents Jennifer and Don Fraser of Oshawa on Wednesday, November 14, 1990.

Branch 441, Kinmount, R.C.L. enjoyed a successful Poppy Campaign November 1-11 realizing close to $1,900. Honorable mention goes out to about eight of the Kinmount Public School Pupils and to Helen Byne who were all a great help in the Campaign and it was very much appreciated.

Best wishes to Nora Crego of Kinmount who is still a patient at Civic Hospital, to Sid Cilcus of Kirkfield who will again be entering hospital in the new year, and to Ted Theford of the Lions Club in Kirkfield, a very nice gentleman whom I understand, will be entering Toronto's Sunnybrook Hospital, soon for surgery. Our prayers go out for all of you and hope you'll be well soon.

Winner for the Norland Volunteer Firefighters' Hockey Pool for Saturday, November 17 was Julie Bryant of Norland and the Saturday, November 24 winner was Dave Lee of

RR1 Norland. Happy birthday to Ida Pardy of Pardy's Variety/Lotto Centre in Lindsay, on Monday, December 3. Another birthday: Jim

Walker on Sunday, December 9. Have a good one Jim. Well folks stay as well and happy as possible these dark days, give me a call if you wish your news aired, at 454-2395. Once again folks, please, I live in Norland now and some of you are still sending notes to Kinmount.

SENIOR LEAGUE

by: WINNIFRED BARNUM

Greetings Sr. League members. The Nov. 22 Tea Party was provided by Minden Legion Auxiliary. They brought a delicious lunch served by Muriel Harrington, Marie Collison, Ethel Baker, Dorothy Graham, Lynn Sharpless, Dorothy Ash, Vi and Ken Walsh. After the lunch the ladies gave each of us a bag of assorted candies. The residents thank everyone who gave them a happy afternoon.

Thursday evening Marge Prentice called bingo for us; she keeps it all going steadily and is a good caller. We certainly thank her heartily.

Our usual Happy Hour

was held Friday with entertainment by Bill Payne, Charlie Hadley, Eldon Deacon and Doris on the piano. The Residents and guests enjoyed the music and singing very much. The volunteers who took care of the residents' needs were Ellen Holden, Mary Guillemin and Bonnie Fullan, and we thank them also.

Rev. John Burgess held Chapel Service Sunday evening, with Alice Jones playing the organ. There was a very good attendance considering we have so many sick people.

There were two birthdays at Hyland Crest last week. Congratulations to Mable Buttery, Nov. 23 and Mary McKelvey Nov. 24. Happy birthdays Mabel and Mary.

On Monday Comfort Clothing was here.

That afternoon Evelyn Coleman came to have bible study. This winter we are studying women of the New Testament. We learned about Anna who worked in the temple, she was a very good woman.

After bible study the Women's Auxiliary of Hyland Crest held their monthly meeting and since I am the president of the Residents Council it is my privilege to attend and report anything pertaining to either group.

Monday night Fern Donnelly and her husband came to show the movies. They tried to show them but for some reason there seemed to be double pictures. He tried about three quarters of an hour and we all went to lunch.

Tuesday morning chapel was led by Rev. Dawn Gilby, Kinmount Anglican Church. Jean Cox was at the organ. There was a large number at the service, who thank Rev. Dawn Gilby and Jean Cox sincerely.

Tuesday afternoon we had a hymn sing song in the main lounge. Marjory Renwick played the piano and Grace Coburn led the singing. Mrs. Renwick played and sang two solos. They were beautiful and we thank Marjory and Grace very much for giving us a delightful afternoon.

Tuesday morning was mostly spent in preparing for the volunteers tea. I'll have a write up next issue on the Volunteers Tea Party.

SUTHERLAND GRADUATION: Ann, George and Kelly are happy to announce Sandy Sutherland's graduation from C.F.R.S. Cornwallis, Nova Scotia. He is presently posted at C.F.B. Borden, Ontario. Sandy is the son of Dusty and Phyllis Sutherland of Minden, Ont.

Bishop Blackwell helps village celebrate

WEST GUILFORD NEWS

by: ELEANOR COOPER

We welcome Bishop Blackwell and his wife, Sandra, to our St. Andrew's Day service on Nov. 30 at St. Andrew's church. St. George's choir under the direction of Bill Giddon led the service of Evensong from the Book of Common Prayer, and sang three anthems. I was duly installed as Lay Reader at this time. Refreshments were served in a happy hour of visiting afterwards.

We have lost another member of the community all too soon in the person of Fred Warren, who died on Friday, Nov. 30 after a month in hospital at the end of a battle with cancer. Our sympathy to Ruby Curl, sister-in-law of Fred.

The Tomorrow Box has had 2 successful nights at the high school as the Highland Little Theatre presented the play under the capable direction of Glen Carter. Tickets are available at Paulette's or from members of the cast for Dec. 7, 8, as well.

Planning for Christmas is under way in special programmes. Should you receive your Echo in time, welcome to the pot luck programme at Zion United Church at 7:30 on Dec. 5th as various groups present a variety of appealing Christmas dialogues, songs or readings.

Dec. 19 is when "The Best Christmas Pageant Ever" is presented at St. George's by the High school drama club under the direction of Wayne Cooper.

The Christmas pageant presented by St. George's Church takes place on Dec. 16.

IN MEMORIAM

WEBERT, DOROTHY MAUDE. In loving memory of a dear wife and mother who passed away December 2, 1988.
God gave her to us,
And He tried to be fair,
And when He gave her to us,
We got more than our share.
Although he took her back,
Two years ago today,
We are so grateful for,
The years He let her stay.
Lovingly remembered by husband Henry, sons Gerald and Paul, daughters-in-law Maureen & Margaret, granddaughters Karen, Kathryn, Lyndsay, Heather and

In memory of MATHEWS, BENJAMIN DANIEL
December 6, 1979.
When we see old photographs
The past is stirred again
With its mingled memories
Of pleasure and of pain
Faces from forgotten places
Smile across the years
Bringing to us memories
Of old laughter and old tears
There is always a face before us

A voice we would love to hear A smile we will always remember
Of a son we loved so dear
A cluster of beautiful memories
Sprayed with a million tears
Wishing God had spared you son
For many, many more years.
Sadly missed and loved forever, Dad & Mom.

32-P-5

In loving memory of my dear son GLEN MICHAEL JOHNSTON who passed away suddenly December 5, 1989 in his 34th year.
May the winds of love blow
softly
And whisper so you hear
How much I love and miss you Glen Beyond telling and a grief
beyond tears
Upright and honest that was my Glen Full of love for all right to the end.
My son they can't call you at midnights
Or call you in early morns
So please God forgive me
But why take the rose
And leave the thorns
My only consolation son,
You have not left me nor have you travelled far,
Just around the corner
Part of my heart you took with you,
But your love you left me to keep,
So my darling we can't ever be parted,
The bond between us is too deep.
Deeply loved and sadly missed, Mom.

32-P-5

JOHNSTON. In loving memory of my dear brother Glen Michael Johnston, who passed away suddenly on December 5, 1989 in his 34th year.
If tears could build a stairway,
And memories a lane,
I'd walk my way to heaven,
To bring him back again.
So God please put your arms around him,
Give him love and care,
Save a place beside him,
Until I meet him there.
Sadly missed by sister
Carolyn, Brad, Mike and Jason.

IN LOVING MEMORY
of a dear husband MER-VILLE YABSLEY who passed away December 7, 1984.

Death is a heartache no one can heal,
So dearly loved and missed.
Wife Marie.

IN MEMORIAM

In memoriam—LESLIE
BAIN who passed away
December 10, 1986.
There is a family who misses
you,
And finds time long since you went,
We think of you daily and hourly,
But try to be brave and content.
Tears that we shed are in silence,
And we breathe a sigh of regret,
For you were ours and we
remember,
Though all the world forget.
Greatly missed and lovingly remembered by wife Marj and family.
